Charged With Burglary

Two young men arrested Saturday afternoon have been charged with burglary of about $1,500 in rings from a jewelry store in Dexter, Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Temples, said today.

Several rings were reported stolen in a burglary early Saturday morning of the Gainer Jewelry Store in Dexter, the highway patrol said.

The men charged are identified as, Michael Walker, 19, of Overland, and Leonard Little, 22, of O'Fallon.

Sheriff Temples said today that most rings taken in the burglary were found hidden in a container under the hood in the car Little was driving when he was arrested. Walker was wearing one of the rings when he was arrested, the Sheriff added.

The men also admitted to taking part in a house burglary Friday night in Sikeston and taking blank checks from the residence, Sheriff Temples said today.

Walker and Little were arrested separately Saturday afternoon, after a tipoff from a service station attendant in Morehouse, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Sikeston Police also aided in tracing the arrested men. A call was received by police here, Saturday reporting that a young man riding a green motorcycle with a blue license plate attempted to cash an $87 check Saturday morning at Barkett's Big Star Market.

The check was made on the First National Bank of Sikeston and had the name Central States Grain Elevator Supply, Inc. This was the same type check as was reported taken in a house burglary Friday night at the William Baker residence, 602 East Wakefield, police reported.

Sheriff Temples said today the men said they tried to cash two checks in Sikeston and succeeded in cashing one. A check was reported taken at the Liberty Supermarket for $75.61 made on the First National Bank of Sikeston carrying the grain company's name, Sikeston police reported today.

The name "John L. Stricker, 102 Kingshighway," was signed on the reverse side of the check, police reported.

A service station attendant in Morehouse reported seeing the motorcyle following a red Chevrolet early Saturday afternoon. The automobile driver, Little, had tried using a bad credit card at the station earlier in the day, the Highway Patrol said today.

A highway patrolman stopped the motorcycle Walker was riding near Dexter.

Little was apprehended by Dunklin county authorities and city police in Malden later in the afternoon.

Both men are being held in Stoddard county jail. They are scheduled to appear in magistrate court Thursday morning to face charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the jewelry store theft

Record 59 Million to Vote

Orbiter Follows Orders

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Nine hours after an Atlas-Agena blasted it skyward from Cape Kennedy, Lunar Orbiter 2 — thanks to a bit of black paint — passed a test its predecessor flunked.

And scientists controlling it from Jet Propulsion Laboratory here hope it will be able to carry out a schedule far more ambitious than that of Orbiter 1 — taking, developing and sending back to earth more than 200 pictures of 13 possible astronaut landing sites on the moon.

As Lunar Orbiter 2 hurtled at 5,200 miles an hour toward the moon a quarter-million miles away shortly after 3 a.m. today, it responded to scientists' orders, rotated and locked on the star Canopus as a navigation guide, JPL spokesmen said.

The 850-pound vehicle was hurled into the sky at 6:21 p.m., EST Sunday from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Sighting devices on Lunar Orbiter 1 never found Canopus, apparently balked by glare from the craft's antenna framework. Lunar Orbiter 2 has a painted framework.

Scientists said they were in no hurry to order a midcourse maneuver to correct its trajectory, and set back the time for the maneuver until later today.

Plans call for Orbiter — which with its solar energy panels extended looks like a giant four-leaf clover — to approach the moon Thursday to begin a month of picture-taking. It will orbit at 125 to 1,150 miles above the moon.

It is scheduled to take a look at the crater where Ranger 8 crashed in February 1965 and to yield information about the texture of the moon's soil.

Light Vote Expected Tuesday

BENTON -- About 3,342 persons or 25 per cent of the registered voters in Scott county are expected to turn out for Tuesday's general election, County Clerk Phil Waldman Jr., reports.

Most Democratic candidates will be assured of reelection with only two officially contested offices on the ballot.

All but two office holders are running unopposed, although a third race could develop from a campaign to gain write-in votes by Harold Hahn, who lost to County Collector Aubrey Michael in a close decision in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary election.

The other races are for county clerk, with Waldman opposing Republican Norman S. Woods, and for 2nd district county court judge, with Democrat Bob Davis opposed by Republican John I. Hamm.

Unopposed candidates for county offices include Harris D. Rodgers, presiding judge of the county court; John H. Sides, probate judge; M. E. Montgomery, magistrate judge; Lynn Ingram, circuit clerk; John J. Bollinger, recorder of deeds, Fielding Potashnick, prosecuting attorney; Hess Porter, treasurer, and J. E. Childress, first district county court judge.

Rep. Paul C. Jones is opposed by Republican Willaim Bruckerhoff for representative in Congress from the 10th district, State Rep. Tony Heckemeyer is opposed by Republican Fred Steward Jr. for state representative from the 157th district and State Rep. Marvin E. Proffer is opposed by Republican Estes F. Caldwell for state representative of the 156th district.

In a state contest Auditor Haskell Holman seeks reelection over his Republican opponent, William T. Zimmerman.

A special ballot will be issued voters on a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize St. Louis county and the city of St. Louis to adopt a plan for partial or complete government of all or any part of the county and city and provide the method of selecting a board of freeholders.

Also on the ballot are three state supreme court judges who are unopposed for reelection, Robert T. Donnelly, James A. Finch Jr. and Fred L. Henley.

Polls will be open in Scott County from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Polling places are:

Sikeston Ward 1, Precinct 1--city hall.

State Expecting Light Turnout

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Weather Bureau isn't predicting unusually bad weather for Tuesday's general election, but political forecasters generally agree voter turnout around the state will be light.

Observers believe only about one million voters will trek to the polls for the off-year election which includes only one statewide race: The campaign of incumbent state Auditor Haskell Holman against state Rep. William Zimmermann of Warrenton, Mo.

The "Fifth Avenue" amendment is the single proposed constitutional change on the ballot. It is mainly of interest to St. Louis and St. Louis County, providing the machinery for closer cooperation, or even a merger.

Supreme court judges Robert Donnelly, James A. Finch Jr., and Fred L. Henley are up for reelection under the non-partisan court plan that has voters cast either "yes" or "no" ballots.

There are 18 state Senate seats being contested and 163 seats in the Missouri House, but the issues causing the most interest are local.

Voters in Kansas City, Springfield, St. Louis, St. Louis County and other cities all will decide on major bond proposals.

St. Louis voters will determine the fate of a $79 million civic improvement bond issue while those in St. Louis County will ballot again on a $25 million parks bond issue, previously defeated in the Aug. 2 primary.

The Weather Bureau is predicting temperatures slightly below average in the northwest, about average west, and mild in the east, south and southwestern areas with some scattered precipitation.

Johnson Denounces Backlash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The campaign winds up today, sparked by a blast from President Johnson at "white backlash" voting.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon also added some homestretch steam, counter-punching at the President on the Viet Nam issue.

"Vote here" signs will be out across the land Tuesday, and an estimated 59 million Americans --a record for a nonpresidential election — are expected to answer the call. An Associated Press survey completed five days before the voting indicates the voters are likely to give the Republicans five or six additional governorships, perhaps an additional Senate seat and fewer than 30 additional House seats. The "out" party usually makes congressional gains in off-year elections.

At a Texas news conference Sunday, Johnson zeroed in on the backlash — the adverse reaction of some whites to violence in some Negro demonstrations and the feeling of some whites that Negroes are pushing too hard for equal rights.

The President declared "racism, whether it comes packaged in the Nazi's brown shirt or a three-button suit, destroys the moral fiber of a nation. It poisons public life."

He said: "I can think of nothing more dangerous, more divisive or more self-destructive than the effort to prey on what is called white backlash. It is dangerous because it threatens to vest power in the hands of second-rate men whose only qualification is their ability to pander on other men's fears."

Johnson was on the receiving end of retort from Nixon. The 1960 GOP presidential standard-bearer, replying to Johnson's criticism of him last Friday for questioning the Manila conference's approach to any future troop withdrawal from South Viet Nam, said the President was "a tired man engaged in verbal abuse."

Here's a look at some of the key races and the AP survey indications on them as the politicians sounded the last hurrahs of the long and often listless campaign.

GOVERNORSHIPS

California: Gov. Edmund G. Brown agreed Sunday he is trailing in public opinion polls in the race against his Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan. But Brown said "they told Harry Truman that back in '48. I will win." He said the backlash is a strong issue and charged Reagan is guilty of "a subtle appeal to the white backlash."

New York: A close one between Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Democrat Frank D. O'Connor. The New York Daily News, winding up its straw poll, says O'Connor will win with a 2.6 per cent edge.

Minnesota: In Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's home state, it's nip and tuck between Democratic Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag and Republican Harold Levander.

Georgia: Lester G. Maddox, self-styled "segregationist for all time," appears to have a narrow lead over Republican Howard H. Callaway. Write-ins for former Democratic Gov. Ellis Arnall possibly could

Viet Cong Slips Away in Jungle

By BOB GASSAWAY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A large Viet Cong force eluded pursuing U.S. infantrymen today, slipping away through the dense jungle of Tay Ninh Province near the Cambodian border after inflicting heavy casualties on some U.S. units over the weekend in one of the fiercest fights of the war.

About 200 South Vietnamese militia, aided by accurate artillery support, beat off an unusual daylight attack by 400 to 500 Communists on a government post 12 miles southeast of Quang Ngai, on the central coast. A South Vietnamese spokesman said the enemy left 30 bodies on the battlefield, while only two militiamen were wounded.

Three new operations were announced, two by American forces and one by several South Vietnamese battalions.

A U.S. military spokesman reported "absolutely no contact" in Tay Ninh Province some 50 miles northwest of Saigon where about 10,000 American infantrymen were seeking to box in a Viet Cong regiment of 2,000 men. Reports from the scene said there had been only isolated sniper fire during the day.

The spokesman said 319 enemy bodies have been counted in the area where hard fighting lasted for four days through Sunday night.

Military analysts in Saigon said the stiff enemy resistance apparently developed because the Communists felt the U.S. probes were getting too close to the gierrillas "central office for South Viet Nam," thought to be somewhere near the Cambodian border.

The American sweep of the enemy stronghold began Oct. 15, but pitched fighting did not develop until Thursday. Total U.S. casualties have been described as light but some units were hit hard in the four-day engagement.

One U.S. Air Force pilot was rescued Sunday after Communist gunners knocked down his F100 Super Sabre jet flying support for ground troops near Tay Ninh City.

Seven men aboard a U.S. Army helicopter were killed and four others injured Sunday when the craft lost power taking off from the Tay Ninh battle area and crashed. Another U.S. helicopter, returning from a war mission, crashed at Saigon's air base, killing the copilot and injuring the pilot.

The American command announced that two operations are under way in Phy Yen Province about 230 miles northeast of Saigon in the vicinity of Tuy Hoa. American casualties were termed light so far in both.

In Operation Geronimo, a company of the 1st Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division reported killing seven North Vietnamese soldiers in a 30-minute fire fight before dawn, raising the total enemy killed in the eight day operation to 21.

The U.S. 4th Infantry Division reported killing 30 Communists in Operation Adams, which was launched October 26. It is the first independent operation the division has begun since it arrived in South Viet Nam two months ago.

American pilots flew 127 missions through moderate to heavy ground fire in North Viet Nam Sunday, U.S. headquarters said. The pilots claimed destruction of one Communist patrol boat, 19 barges, seven bridges, six buildings, two antiaircraft sites and 33 trucks, and other strikes against petroleum dumps.

The patrol boat was hit after it fired on U. S. planes making an identification pass, the U.S. command said.

An Air Force F105 was knocked down by Communist ground fire in the North Sunday and the pilot was rescued. It was the 419th reported loss over the North.

A B52 raid was announced in Kontum Province, the 10th such bombing mission in the area in nine days against suspected base camps and troops concentrations. A second B52 strike was carried out in Phouc Long Province, 95 miles north of Saigon.

K.C. Ambush Victim To Get Silver Star

SEOUL, KOREA (AP) — A young GI, killed by North Korean infiltrators after he went to aid his buddies instead of running away, was recommended today for the Silver Star.

U. S. officials said that Pvt. Earnest D. Reynolds, 20, of Kansas City, Mo., was standing rear security duty near the demilitarized zone and could easily have escaped the ambush early last Wednesday.

Instead he rushed up from his post 30 yards away and was killed by the Communist Koreans who overran an allied patrol. The Reds killed six Americans and one South Korean soldier.

The attack occurred on the last day of President Johnson's three-day visit to South Korea. Johnson was in Seoul, 30 miles away, at the time of the clash.

Pvt. David E. Bibee, 17, of Ringgold, Va., the sole survivor of the U. S. patrol, was awarded a purple heart.

Bibee survived by feigning death after the Korean Communists overran the patrol. He is recovering at the 121st evacuation hospital outside Seoul.

Maj. Gen. George B. Pickett Jr., commanding general of the 2nd Infantry Division, said in his recommendation of the award for Reynolds:

"When the attack began with a burst of grenades and automatic weapons fire, Reynolds attacked the North Korean Army raiders on their flank and rear in an effort to assist his comrades.

"In so doing, he fully exposed himself to enemy fire and was killed.

"Bloody North Korean first aid bandages as well as a bloody trail leading back into the demilitarized zone gave indication that Reynolds wounded or killed one or more of the enemy."

Officers and men of the 2nd Infantry Division paid tribute today to their six dead comrades. An honor guard flew from Korea to bid farewell to the six young soldiers in memorial services at Tachikawa Air Force Base near Tokyo.

Lt. Col. Robert S. Scott, a 2nd Infantry chaplain, conducted the services under a cloudy sky. The coffins were carried on board a U. S. Air Force Hercules troop - cargo carrier for the flight to the United States.

Court Overturns Tax Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court ordered today a new trial for Fred B. Black, Jr., convicted of federal income tax evasion.

Black, a public relations man and one-time associate of Bobby Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, had asked the high court to overturn the conviction because the Justice Department ackowledged FBI agents "bugged" his hotel suite here to eavesdrop on talks between Black and his lawyer.

The Supreme Court said in an unsigned opinion, "It appears that justice requires that a new trial be held so as to afford the petitioner (Black) an opportunity to protect himself from the use of evdence that might be otherwise inadmissible."

Age Issue In Illinois Election

CHICAGO (AP) — An unstressed issue-age-may weigh heavily in the Illinois race for the U.S. Senate between Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas, 74, and Republican Charles H. Percy, 47.

Percy, boy industrialist turned hard-driving political campaigner, has not mentioned the 27-year age difference. Douglas has mentioned his age, but only in connection with his demonstrated stamina and vigor.

The two men have waged their battle primarily on an issue in which Douglas is an acknowledge authority - economics. Douglas, a former university professor of economics, says Americans are "extremely prosperous" under Democratic leadership and warns: "Don't turn back the progress of prosperity for a recession."

Percy, once a student in Douglas' class, tells voters: "There's little joy in prosperity based on war that brings with it ruinous inflation."

Both Douglas and Percy spar over the war in Viet Nam, but what comes across is only that they're concerned about it. Both discount the effect of white backlash, although it could figure in a shift of the Illinois delegation in Congress.

Late-coming, write-in candidate Robert Sabonjian, the black-browed Waukegan mayor, has backing of voters who want to contain the Negro. Sabonjian came to public notice when he took a tough stand to stop Negro rioting in his city, and then blamed Negro civil rights organizations for fomenting the disorders.

Douglas, fighting hard for a fourth straight six-year term, knows he's in an uphill battle. Administration leaders rallying to help Douglas have included Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Charged With Burglary

Two young men arrested Saturday afternoon have been charged with burglary of about $1,500 in rings from a jewelry store in Dexter, Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Temples, said today.

Several rings were reported stolen in a burglary early Saturday morning of the Gainer Jewelry Store in Dexter, the highway patrol said.

The men charged are identified as, Michael Walker, 19, of Overland, and Leonard Little, 22, of O'Fallon.

Sheriff Temples said today that most rings taken in the burglary were found hidden in a container under the hood in the car Little was driving when he was arrested. Walker was wearing one of the rings when he was arrested, the Sheriff added.

The men also admitted to taking part in a house burglary Friday night in Sikeston and taking blank checks from the residence, Sheriff Temples said today.

Walker and Little were arrested separately Saturday afternoon, after a tipoff from a service station attendant in Morehouse, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Sikeston Police also aided in tracing the arrested men. A call was received by police here, Saturday reporting that a young man riding a green motorcycle with a blue license plate attempted to cash an $87 check Saturday morning at Barkett's Big Star Market.

The check was made on the First National Bank of Sikeston and had the name Central States Grain Elevator Supply, Inc. This was the same type check as was reported taken in a house burglary Friday night at the William Baker residence, 602 East Wakefield, police reported.

Sheriff Temples said today the men said they tried to cash two checks in Sikeston and succeeded in cashing one. A check was reported taken at the Liberty Supermarket for $75.61 made on the First National Bank of Sikeston carrying the grain company's name, Sikeston police reported today.

The name "John L. Stricker, 102 Kingshighway," was signed on the reverse side of the check, police reported.

A service station attendant in Morehouse reported seeing the motorcylce following a red Chevrolet early Saturday afternoon. The automobile driver, Little, had tried using a bad credit card at the station earlier in the day, the Highway Patrol said today.

A highway patrolman stopped the motorcycle Walker was riding near Dexter.

Little was apprehended by Dunklin county authorities and city police in Malden later in the afternoon.

Both men are being held in Stoddard county jail. They are scheduled to appear in magistrate court Thursday morning to face charges of burglary and larceny in connection with the jewelry store theft

Persons File Charges On Each Other

Two Sikeston residents signed complaints on each other each charging the other with assault and affray Sunday afternoon.

Police responded when they received a call reporting that a fight was in progress on Luther St.

Sikeston police reported today that Tommy Hayes, 46, 336 Petty, $31 bond. and is to appear in city court Thursday. Earnestine Nicholson, 19, 332 Luther, was arrested on the same charge. She has not posted bond.

In other arrests, J. D. Richardson, 218 Petty, was charged by police Saturday with parking in a no parking zone on Luther St., police reported.

Orbiter Follows Orders

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Nine hours after an Atlas-Agena blasted it skyward from Cape Kennedy, Lunar Orbiter 2 — thanks to a bit of black paint — passed a test its predecessor flunked.

And scientists controlling it from Jet Propulsion Laboratory here hope it will be able to carry out a schedule far more ambitious than that of Orbiter 1 — taking, developing and sending back to earth more than 200 pictures of 13 possible astronaut landing sites on the moon.

As Lunar Orbiter 2 hurtled at 5,200 miles an hour toward the moon a quarter-million miles away shortly after 3a.m. today, it responded to scientists' orders, rotated and locked on the star Canopus as a navigation guide, JPL spokesmen said.

The 850-pound vehicle was hurled into the sky at 6:21 p.m., EST Sunday from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Sighting devices on Lunar Orbiter 1 never found Canopus, apparently balked by glare from the craft's antenna framework. Lunar Orbiter 2 has a painted framework.

Scientists said they were in no hurry to order a midcourse maneuver to correct its trajectory, and set back the time for the maneuver until later today.

Plans call for Orbiter — which with its solar energy panels extended looks like a giant four-leaf clover — to approach the moon Thursday to begin a month of picture-taking. It will orbit at 125 to 1,150 miles above the moon.

It is scheduled to take a look at the crater where Ranger 8 crashed in February 1965 and to yield information about the texture of the moon's soil.

Light Vote Expected Tuesday

BENTON -- About 3,342 persons or 25 per cent of the registered voters in Scott county are expected to turn out for Tuesday's general election, County Clerk Phil Waldman Jr., reports.

Most Democratic candidates will be assured of reelection with only two officially contested offices on the ballot.

All but two office holders are running unopposed, although a third race could develop from a campaign to gain write-in votes by Harold Hahn, who lost to County Collector Aubrey Michael in a close decision in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary election.

The other races are for county clerk, with Waldman opposing Republican Norman S. Woods, and for 2nd district county court judge, with Democrat Bob Davis opposed by Republican John I. Hamm.

Unopposed candidates for county offices include Harris D. Rodgers, presiding judge of the county court; John H. Sides, probate judge; M. E. Montgomery, magistrate judge; Lynn Ingram, circuit clerk; John J. Bollinger, recorder of deeds, Fielding Potashnick, prosecuting attorney; Hess Porter, treasurer, and J. E. Childress, first district county court judge.

Rep. Paul C. Jones is opposed by Republican Willaim Bruckerhoff for representative in Congress from the 10th district, State Rep. Tony Heckemeyer is opposed by Republican Fred Steward Jr. for state representative from the 157th district and State Rep. Marvin E. Proffer is opposed by Republican Estes F. Caldwell for state representative of the 156th district.

In a state contest Auditor Haskell Holman seeks reelection over his Republican opponent, William T. Zimmerman.

A special ballot will be issued voters on a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize St. Louis county and the city of St. Louis to adopt a plan for partial or complete government of all or any part of the county and city and provide the method of selecting a board of freeholders.

Also on the ballot are three state supreme court judges who are unopposed for reelection, Robert T. Donnelly, James A. Finch Jr. and Fred L. Henley.

State Expecting Light Turnout

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Weather Bureau isn't predicting unusually bad weather for Tuesday's general election, but political forecasters generally agree voter turnout around the state will be light.

Observers believe only about one million voters will trek to the polls for the off-year election which includes only one statewide race: The campaign of incumbent state Auditor Haskell Holman against state Rep. William Zimmermann of Warrenton, Mo.

The "Fifth Avenue" amendment is the single proposed constitutional change on the ballot. It is mainly of interest to St. Louis and St. Louis County, providing the machinery for closer cooperation, or even a merger.

Supreme court judges Robert Donnelly, James A. Finch Jr., and Fred L. Henley are up for reelection under the non-partisan court plan that has voters cast either "yes" or "no" ballots.

There are 18 state Senate seats being contested and 163 seats in the Missouri House, but the issues causing the most interest are local.

Voters in Kansas City, Springfield, St. Louis, St. Louis County and other cities all will decide on major bond proposals.

St. Louis voters will determine the fate of a $79 million civic improvement bond issue while those in St. Louis County will ballot again on a $25 million parks bond issue, previously defeated in the Aug. 2 primary.

The Weather Bureau is predicting temperatures slightly below average in the northwest, about average west, and mild in the east, south and southwestern areas with some scattered precipitation.

Five Masons Will Be Honored

Five members of Masonic Lodge will be honored Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 320 South Kingshighway, at the 43rd annual past masters night.

Highlighting the program will be the presentation of 50-year Masonic buttons to Alonzo A. Harrison, James Huls, Dr. Thomas C. McClure, Dr. Handy L. Smith, and the late Dr. Ben L. McMullin. Robert W. Boyer, worshipful master, will preside.

The speaker will be the Rev. J. Harmon Holt, pastor of Wesley Methodist church.

Opening the program will be the invocation by the Rev. Homer L. Stallings, Jr., followed by the introduction of guests, including all living past masters.

The presentation of the altar cloth will be given by the Job's Daughters, and the introduction of the speaker by Bro. O. D. Clayton. The benediction will be given by Stallings.

Refreshments will be served in the dining room. The program committee members are Leonard V. Colley, Ira V. Taylor and W. P. Keith.

This will be an open meeting.

Court Overturns Tax Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court ordered today a new trial for Fred B. Black, Jr., convicted of federal income tax evasion.

Black, a public relations man and one-time associate of Bobby Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, had asked the high court to overturn the conviction because the Justice Department ackowledged FBI agents "bugged" his hotel suite here to eavesdrop on talks between Black and his lawyer.

The Supreme Court said in an unsigned opinion, "It appears that justice requires that a new trial be held so as to afford the petitioner (Black) an opportunity to protect himself from the use of evdence that might be otherwise inadmissible."

Age Issue In Illinois Election

CHICAGO (AP) — An unstressed issue-age-may weigh heavily in the Illinois race for the U.S. Senate between Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas, 74, and Republican Charles H. Percy, 47.

Percy, boy industrialist turned hard-driving political campaigner, has not mentioned the 27-year age difference. Douglas has mentioned his age, but only in connection with his demonstrated stamina and vigor.

The two men have waged their battle primarily on an issue in which Douglas is an acknowledge authority - economics. Douglas, a former university professor of economics, says Americans are "extremely prosperous" under Democratic leadership and warns: "Don't turn back the progress of prosperity for a recession."

Percy, once a student in Douglas' class, tells voters: "There's little joy in prosperity based on war that brings with it ruinous inflation."

Both Douglas and Percy spar over the war in Viet Nam, but what comes across is only that they're concerned about it. Both discount the effect of white backlash, although it could figure in a shift of the Illinois delegation in Congress.

Late-coming, write-in candidate Robert Sabonjian, the black-browed Waukegan mayor, has backing of voters who want to contain the Negro. Sabonjian came to public notice when he took a tough stand to stop Negro rioting in his city, and then blamed Negro civil rights organizations for fomenting the disorders.

Douglas, fighting hard for a fourth straight six-year term, knows he's in an uphill battle. Administration leaders rallying to help Douglas have included Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Johnson Denounces Backlash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The campaign winds up today, sparked by a blast from President Johnson at "white backlash" voting.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon also added some homestretch steam, counterpunching at the President on the Viet Nam issue.

"Vote here" signs will be out across the land Tuesday, and an estimated 59 million Americans —a record for a nonpresidential election — are expected to answer the call. An Associated Press survey completed five days before the voting indicates the voters are likely to give the Republicans five or six additional governorships, perhaps an additional Senate seat and fewer than 30 additional House seats. The "out" party usually makes congressional gains in off-year elections.

At a Texas news conference Sunday, Johnson zeroed in on the backlash — the adverse reaction of some whites to violence in some Negro demonstrations and the feeling of some whites that Negroes are pushing too hard for equal rights.

The President declared "racism, whether it comes packaged in the Nazi's brown shirt or a three-button suit, destroys the moral fiber of a nation. It poisons public life."

He said: "I can think of nothing more dangerous, more divisive or more self-destructive than the effort to prey on what is called white backlash. It is dangerous because it threatens to vest power in the hands of second-rate men whose only qualification is their ability to pander on other men's fears."

Johnson was on the receiving end of retort from Nixon. The 1960 GOP presidential standard-bearer, replying to Johnson's criticism of him last Friday for questioning the Manila conference's approach to any future troop withdrawal from South Viet Nam, said the President was "a tired man engaged in verbal abuse."

Here's a look at some of the key races and the AP survey indications on them as the politicians sounded the last hurrahs of the long and often listless campaign.

GOVERNORSHIPS

California: Gov. Edmund G. Brown agreed Sunday he is trailing in public opinion polls in the race against his Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan. But Brown said "they told Harry Truman that back in '48. I will win." He said the backlash is a strong issue and charged Reagan is guilty of "a subtle appeal to the white backlash."

New York: A close one between Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Democrat Frank D. O'Connor. The New York Daily News, winding up its straw poll, says O'Connor will win with a 2.6 per cent edge.

Minnesota: In Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's home state, it's nip and tuck between Democratic Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag and Republican Harold Levander.

Georgia: Lester G. Maddox, self-styled "segregationist for all time," appears to have a narrow lead over Republican Howard H. Callaway. Write-ins for former Democratic Gov. Ellis Arnall possibly could

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

VIEWPOINT: A TENTH TERM FOR PAUL C. JONES.

In his 18 years in Washington as a representative of the people of southeast Missouri, Rep. Paul C. Jones, Democrat, of Kennett, has become a knowledgeable and authoritative spokesman for his constituents in the Tenth District.

He deserves retention by Southeast Missouri voters for a tenth consecutive term in the House of Representatives. His endorsement by The Globe-Democrat for re-election in November takes into account his entire legislative record, including those times when he has opposed unwise measures advanced by his own party.

Congressman Jones has kept the agricultural interests of his District in mind as a senior member of the House Agriculture Committee, and has resisted the attitude of what he has called a "metropolitan area Congress" that "farmers are getting all the gravy."

Representative Jones has maintained a watchful eye on needless government spending, hitting at extravagances of such federal trivia as bloated printing bills for the Congressional Record with its pages padded with speeches never delivered but intended only to impress the voters back home.

He helped defeat a bill which would have fattened the salaries of Supreme Court justices by some $4000, saying they should legislate their own pay raises in the manner in which they had rewritten the Constitution. He urged that all governmental salaries be frozen, including those of Congress, until some reduction is shown in the national debt and a balanced budget maintained for two consecutive years.

Such non-political attitudes are rare in the halls of Congress. Congressman Jones' concern for the taxpayer, no matter where or how he casts his ballot, is needed on the national scene. He is a credit to Missouri's Congressional representation.

We recommend that he be returned for a deserved tenth term.

TO BROWN BAG OR NOT TO BROWN BAG.

The Supreme Court of North Carolina is expected shortly to rule on consumption of liquor in public places.

DRINKING in the state of North Carolina traditionally involves a delightful, sometimes trying, and always confusing mixture of state law, local mores, and law enforcement. The state legislature in 1923 banned all liquor sales in the state. But the same statute made it legal for people who already had liquor in their homes to keep it there.

Then in 1937 the legislature authorized state-operated liquor stores on the basis of local option. As of now, 67 Tarheel counties allow the sale of booze and 33 do not. Eight of the so-called dry counties do allow the sale of wine and beer. Thus the spectrum runs from wet to dry to bone-dry. The confusion is further complicated by the fact that a good many Carolinians, like good people elsewhere, like to vote dry and drink wet.

What the lawgivers specifically have failed to do is decide whether Tarheels can pop a cork or bottle cap in public. By tacit understanding among law enforcement authorities, a good many communities enjoyed the practice of what statewide is called brown-bagging. That phase applies to the custom of taking a bottle in the liquor store brown paper bag to restaurants, night clubs, and stadiums. The mixer, when desired, is purchases at the scene.

Attorney Gen. Wade Bruton threw a drop-curve into the Tarheel pattern of conviviality last April when he ruled that toping in public is for the birds. The North Carolina Board of Alcoholic Control, faced with an ultimatum, took the state's chief law enforcement officer at his word. Two Charlotte night clubs then went into court and won a restraining order from Judge H. L. Riddle of the Mecklenburg County Superior Court.

THE STATE in turn appealed. Now the N.C. Supreme Court is seized of the problem. A ruling is expected in a week or so.

Brown-bagging is the practice in many states, not only in the South, which allow the sale of liquor only in state stores. Another is the selling of "club" memberships -- usually for $1 a year -- so that patrons can keep bottles in lockers, in bars and restaurants.

SUMPTUARY LAWS, particularly those dealing with drinking, die hard in the United States. States more lenient than North Carolina still require that booze be sold at certain times only with meals. The Nation's Capital until recently allowed drinking sitting down but ruled out standing drinking. In some states a patron cannot, but a waitress can, carry a drink from one table to another.

The lack of uniformity, not only intrastate but among states, has caused a great deal of hard feeling and some serious traffic problems. Officials of states neighboring New York, for example, have for years been urging that New York raise its drinking age from 18 to 21 years. The argument is not evangelical; governors of neighboring states are seriously worried about accidents caused by their own youngsters who drink in New York and then drive home.

Whatever the North Carolina court decides, the next state legislature is expected to work on the drinking laws. It may be that the brown bag will go the way of the Mason jar.

The car pool is a bit of a mystery.

Nobody knows for sure how many there are, because car pool riders are perhaps the only major mass-transit group that hasn't been counted and exhaustively analyzed by government and private researchers.

One thing many city planners do know about car pools: They'd like to see more of them.

"Encouraging people to use car pools may become a necessity for both private industry and government in the not-too-distant future," warns Michael Robinson, deputy commissioner of streets and sanitation for the city of Chicago. The reason is the pressure of more people with more cars on roads and parking facilities.

The only national figures that cast some light on the extent of car pooling, compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, show that the average passenger load on trips to work by private autos is 1.3 persons. That means that nearly 25 per cent of those who get to work by private vehicle probably do so in some sort of car-pool arrangement.

With three or more people, traveling by car pool usually is competitive with public transportation--and the more people in the pool, the cheaper it becomes. To conserve on parking space, many big companies offer the best spots on the firm's lot to car poolers. In Washington, D. C., the government has gone even further in encouraging the car pool for Federal employees. Except for high ranking officials, government workers can't get a parking space unless they are part of a car pool.

RIGHT-TO-WORK AND UNION MEMBERSHIP

The drive is under way to cause Congress to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits the states to pass Right-to-Work laws prohibiting compulsory unionsim as a condition of employment. In the 19 states which have done so, every worker voluntarily decides whether to join or not, and is protected from coercion by either the union or the employer.

The unions argue that Right-to-Work is, in effect, a union-busting tactic and is designed to play havoc with union membership and the effectiveness of the unions in obtaining benefits for labor.

In the light of that, some information provided by James R. Wason, Specialist in Labor Relations, Legislative Reference Service, Library of Congress, is extremely significant. He says: "For the period 1958 to 1962, at least, the trend in (AFL-CIO) membership in major union states without Right-to-Work laws is more unfavorable than in Right-to-Work states." Specifically, union membership went up in 40 per cent of the Right-to-Work states, as against 30 per cent in the non-Right-to-Work states.

One reason for this, perhaps, is that the unions must do a better job where membership is voluntary rather than compulsory. They must sell themselves on the basis of service and make joining up a more attractive proposition to the worker. And they must be far more responsive to the wishes of the rank-and-file.

Finally, if a man can't hold a job without joining and paying dues to an organization, irrespective of his wishes in the matter, an absolutely basic freedom is denied him. There is no more for that kind of coercion in a truly free society.

GREATEST GOOD EQUALS GREATEST GOODS

The seventh of the Ten Pillars of Economic Wisdom reads as follows: "The greatest good for the greatest number means, in its material sense, the greatest goods for the greatest number which, in turn, means the greatest productivity per worker."

As the reader will recognize, "the greatest good for the greatest number" is the goal which Karl Marx thought could be reached only through state ownership and management of the tools of production, along with centralized planning as to what should be produced. As the historical record shows, the opposite is true: private enterprise is well on the way to delivering what Communism has been promising since the 1917 Russian Revolution.

Marx predicted that the owners of power tools would selfishly restrict production to "scarcity levels" that would bring high prices from the "upper classes" and thus make it impossible for the workers to buy the things they made.

In his ignorance of practical economics, Marx thought the highly expensive tools of mass production would be operated profitably without pricing the products for mass consumption.

The truth is the exact opposite. The self-interest of the tool owners demanded high production and low cost. That is why the selling prices of mass-produced products were dramatically reduced. In fact, until automatic textile machinery came into use, high grade cloth had been virtually beyond the purchasing power of the masses. This was a prime example of the "greatest goods for the greatest number."

Surprisingly enough, the pressures for limitations on the production permitted from the power tools came from the employees using them; they thought that high production would saturate the market and throw them out of work. These workers did not realize that human wants are inexhaustible and that, for most goods, the market always becomes larger as the price goes down.

To a great extent this misunderstanding of the effect of better tools still shows up in the public's attitude toward automation. Compared to some of the past improvement in tools, the impact of modern automated equipment is slight. In agriculture, for example, power tools have destroyed 90% of the farm jobs, but everybody has benefited because better jobs were waiting to be filled. Moreover, the farm jobs that are left are much easier and pay much more. Without automated equipment on the farm, consumers would be paying higher prices for food, and farm workers would be working longer for less pay.

RUNAWAY SPENDING

During the session of Congress which ended October 22, a total of approximately $144.6 billion dollars was appropriated. This included a supplemental appropriation of about $16 billion for the fiscal year ended last June 30, much of which was for conducting the war in Vietnam.

Far-reaching new programs were approved by Congress, and the heavy appropriations included only small down payments on some of them. The cost of many of these programs will increase from year to year if the past offers a fair basis for judging.

Three of the programs alone will create extremely heavy pressures for increased spending. These are the "demonstration cities," aid to elementary and secondary education, and the anti-poverty program.

Under the demonstration cities program the Federal government assumes a major part of the cost of rebuilding blighted metropolitan areas. The original program will cover 50 or 60 cities. And of course that will be only the beginning as one city after another demands to be included. It is estimated that $50 billion will be needed in 10 years in New york City alone.

In Federal aid to education, Congress authorized some $6 billion over a two-year period for assistance to elementary and secondary schools. This is a modest sum compared to what it will be as pressure mounts from school districts everywhere for some of the "free money" from Washington.

It will be hard to keep the cost of the politics-oriented anti-poverty program from growing substantially. The people pay; in taxes and in the cost of inflation caused by deficit spending.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Back in 1914 my father, Paul M. Pearson, then president of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, scheduled three religious speakers, Rabbi Steven S. Wise of New York, Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, famed Presbyterian minister of Brooklyn, and Father John Ryan, chairman of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, to speak in Pennsylvania communities.

This brought vigorous, almost violent opposition - chiefly against hearing Father Ryan. There was some opposition to hearing Rabbi Wise.

My father was not one to yield on an issue of free speech. In the end, Father Ryan and Rabbi Wise were received.

This was 50 years ago and times have changed. In 1958 Pennsylvania elected its first Catholic governor, David Lawrence, and this year the first Jew may become governor of Pennsylvania.

The Jewish candidate, Milton Shapp, is a businessman who built up a small fortune manufacturing TV antennas and electronics, and has now sold his factories so he would avoid even the most remote conflict of interest. Also he needed a small fortune to run his campaign.

Shapp's battle is one of the most significant in the entire United States. He is running not so much against the Republican candidate as against the entrenched interests which have long dominated Pennsylvania politics - the utility companies, the power companies, the railroads. The only alternative to their lobbies, Shapp claims, is a people's lobby.

He has accused these companies of avoiding real estate tax on most of their property. Based upon their 1964 profits, their tax base should have been $6.9 billion.

"Up in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties," said the turbulent candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, "The Pennsylvania Gas and Water Company owns 70,000 acres of land which it's keeping as a private game preserve. Its streams are stocked by the state of Pennsylvania. It allows no hunting by the public. And it pays only a pittance in taxes.

"In Northumberland county the Roaring Creek Water Company has 15,000 acres of land, which it set aside as a private hunting preserve," continues Shapp. "Its president, Douglas McWilliams, has been appointed to the State Game Commission, yet last year he was arrested for shooting over his quota of deer.

"Again the Roaring Creek Water Company pays only a pittance of taxes on this land," says the man who is running for governor of Pennsylvania. "If I am elected I am going to abolish the private game preserve for this game commissioner."

FAR WEST RIGHTISTS

The farther south and west you go, the more the Republican party drifts away from its moderate eastern leadership. In Montana, for instance, the Liberty Lobby, the John Birchites and other ultra rightists are mobilizing behind Gov. Tim Babcock, Republican, to try to defeat Sen. Lee Metcalf, a liberal Democrat.

For some time the right wing has been gaining strength in Montana. It tried to oust Roland Renne, as president of Montana State College if he didn't fire 22 professors whom the Birchites claimed were left wingers and pro-communist. President Renne refused, claimed some of them were among his best professors, that one of them had been guilty only of explaining the political creeds of the Scandinavian states long under labor-socialist governments.

Finally President Renne challenged Babcock by running against him for governor in 1964. Babcock won.

This fall Babcock, reinforced by his victory over Renne, is reaching for the Senate.

But while he damns Federal supervision of Federal projects, his trucking companies are making a fortune hauling concrete to the Yellowtail Dam, a Federal project.

The records of the Montana Railroad Commission show that Babcock and Lee Transport, Inc., was operating at a deficit for the year ending June 30, 1960. The total operating revenue was $1,230 and the net operating income showed a loss of $6,976. By 1962 the firm had an operating revenue of $28,793 but was still in the red by $15,349. Suddenly, after Babcock became lieutenant governor, he purchased $193,473 in equipment in 1963, and his operating revenue jumped up to $90,901, with a net operating income of $26,469.

Babcock became governor in 1964. Since then the finances of his two trucking companies have flourished even more. In 1964 the total trucking revenue was $328,525, and the net operating income was $75,683 - not bad when four years ago the governor's trucking firms were operating in the red to the tune of nearly $7,000.

Gov. Babcock has been charging malfeasance in Washington. He gets very much aroused over Bobby Baker's conflict of interest. But when it comes to his own trucking conflicts - well, that's another problem.

SUGAR LOBBY SCANDAL

One of the worst legislative scandals of the last congressional session was the manner in which lobbyists were permitted to write the sugar bill the way they wanted it, not the way the public needed it.

The sugar lobbyists were even permitted to sit on the secret sessions of the House Agriculture Committee under Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., when the public was barred. This is against all congressional rules, and in 1925 Sen. Hiram Bingham, Connecticut Republican, was censured for permitting a representative of the Connecticut manufacturers Association to attend such a closed-door session.

Only five committee members had the courage to follow the lead of courageous Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., in bucking the Sugar Lobby and voting against the sugar bill in committee. They were, in addition to Resnick; Lynn Stalbaum, Wis., John Mackie, Mich., Democrats, with Ralph Harvey, Ind., and Paul Findley, Ill., Republicans.

In contrast here are the members of the House Agriculture Committee who voted with the sugar lobbyists. The public should scrutinize the list carefully to see whether they deserve a negative vote on election day.

The Democrats were: Harold Cooley, N.C., W.R. Poage, Tex., E.C. Gathings, Ark., John McMillan, S.C., Thomas Abernethy, Miss., Watkins Abbitt, Va., Paul Jones, Mo., Harlan Hagen, Calif., Frank Stubblefield, Ky., Graham Purcell, Tex., James Morrison, La., Alec Olson, Minn., Spark Matsunaga, Hawaii, Maston O'Neal, Ga., Thomas Foley, Wash., Eligio de la Garza, Tex., Roland Redlin, N.D., Burt Bandstra, Iowa, Stan Greigg, Iowa and Clair Callan, Neb.

The Republicans voting for the sugar bill were: Paul Dague, Pa., Page Belcher, Okla., Charles Teague, Calif., Catherine May, Wash., Delbert Latta, Ohio, Bob Dole, Kansas and Laurence Burton, Utah.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Science has confirmed the claim of many teen-agers that they actually can study better while listening to loud music. Tests showed, however, that this was true only of high school students, not of college students.

Liquor, which sometimes makes people act like monkeys, also can make monkeys act like people. Researchers have found that alcohol can calm the fears of monkeys, but they can become so fond of its tranquilizing effects that they become animal alcoholics.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

President Johnson Warned By Aides '67 Will Be 'Toughest' Strike Year.

Washington, D. C.: --Certainly the White House never runs out of labor crises. Just a few minutes before the President's jet touched the runway last Wednesday night, the TV technicians were up in the air. They threatened to strike.

Their union wanted one more video man hired because another camera had been added for the President's report to the nation. For the moment it looked like the return of "Shane" instead of Lyndon Johnson would be screen fare.

Ten minutes before mike-time, it was settled. And not because the nation's prestige was involved, either. The broadcasting union just wasn't going to be disturbed by minor matters. It had a demand and it was going to make it, president or no president.

Though unseen by the country, the backstage melodrama was a portent of the times, a sign of things to come, a measure of the coming year.

Many of the strategically placed unions will take some mighty tough positions in '67 -- beginning with the teamsters in January and winding up with the auto workers just this side of '68.

Basically the union campaigns will be for money -- wage increases of far more than five per cent a week. That's next year's magic figure replacing this year's 3.2 per cent wage guidelines, set by the President who soon rued it -- because he discovered that his statisticians were bad politicians and his politicians were worse statisticians.

Mr. Johnson quickly discovered that figure swiftly becomes the minimum instead of the maximum. It becomes the operating base for unions to get twice and three times the guideline, depending on the power of the labor organization and the volume and strategic nature of the industry -- or industries -- it can tie up with a strike.

So with five per cent as the new base, the White House experts believe the unions will be asking for twice and even three times that -- 10 and 15 per cent wage package increases. What the labor leaders are saying, in effect, is that the White House just can't set any overall guideline for wage and welfare increases.

Furthermore, say the union officials, this should not be done even industry by industry. Pay hikes will have to be set plant by plant; even shop by shop.

The five per cent figure is good for a starter, say they. And if anyone takes the trouble to analyze what the railroad brotherhoods just agreed to, he'll note that five per cent is just a starter. They plan to ask for more later in 1967 -- in cash -- and more in benefits, pensions, holidays, welfare and shorter work weeks.

Just how did five per cent become the magic -- resting place -- figure?

It all goes back to a confidential report submitted last March 11 to leaders of the influential 3.5 million - member national construction and building trades council here. It was quietly written by labor's quiet man -- the owlish and gentle Nat Goldfinger --whom it would take a James Bond to find. He's the AFL-CIO's top researcher. This is what he said, in effect:

The cost of living went up by 1.7 per cent in 1965. This is the government's own figure, issued by the Consumer Price Index statisticians. So no one can dispute it.

Therefore, it should be added to the 3.2 per cent increase which is suggested by the federal wage guidelines. Otherwise, the actual wage increase received from a 3.2 per cent raise -- the actual purchasing power -- is worth less than half of what appears to be additional pay. Backing up this argument, Goldfinger said in his still unreported document:

"Therefore, even to get the Council of Economic Advisers' 3.2 guideline figure, in terms of real gains of buying power, you need a wage settlement of 4.9 per cent, excluding all other issues, such as wage inequities, etc.

"In other words, you need wage settlements of about 5 per cent this year merely to obtain a 3.2 per cent improvement in buying power. . "

Thus Goldfinger put the basic total increase at at least five per cent. And that is what the labor settlements were for the rest of the year -- on the airlines, at GE, on the railways and in a thousand manufacturing plants. In construction the employment cost increases ran far higher.

Now the big unions will point out that the cost of living certainly ran up in 1966. So the five per cent hike of 1966 will have to be merely a base for boosts totaling twice as much.

There will be terrific resistance to this on the industrial front. President Johnson's aides are telling him to expect '67 to be one of his toughest "labor years". There will be wide wage hikes, or there will be massive strikes.

Inflation? A wartime rank and file could not care less. No area will be too sacred to strike.

That was the President's homecoming.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

VIEWPOINT: A TENTH TERM FOR PAUL C. JONES.

In his 18 years in Washington as a representative of the people of southeast Missouri, Rep. Paul C. Jones, Democrat, of Kennett, has become a knowledgeable and authoritative spokesman for his constituents in the Tenth District.

He deserves retention by Southeast Missouri voters for a tenth consecutive term in the House of Representatives. His endorsement by The Globe-Democrat for re-election in November takes into account his entire legislative record, including those times when he has opposed unwise measures advanced by his own party.

Congressman Jones has kept the agricultural interests of his District in mind as a senior member of the House Agriculture Committee, and has resisted the attitude of what he has called a "metropolitan area Congress" that "farmers are getting all the gravy."

Representative Jones has maintained a watchful eye on needless government spending, hitting at extravagances of such federal trivia as bloated printing bills for the Congressional Record with its pages padded with speeches never delivered but intended only to impress the voters back home.

He helped defeat a bill which would have fattened the salaries of Supreme Court justices by some $4000, saying they should legislate their own pay raises in the manner in which they had rewritten the Constitution. He urged that all governmental salaries be frozen, including those of Congress, until some reduction is shown in the national debt and a balanced budget maintained for two consecutive years.

Such non-political attitudes are rare in the halls of Congress. Congressman Jones' concern for the taxpayer, no matter where or how he casts his ballot, is needed on the national scene. He is a credit to Missouri's Congressional representation.

We recommend that he be returned for a deserved tenth term.

TO BROWN BAG OR NOT TO BROWN BAG.

The Supreme Court of North Carolina is expected shortly to rule on consumption of liquor in public places.

DRINKING in the state of North Carolina traditionally involves a delightful, sometimes trying, and always confusing mixture of state law, local mores, and law enforcement. The state legislature in 1923 banned all liquor sales in the state. But the same statute made it legal for people who already had liquor in their homes to keep it there.

Then in 1937 the legislature authorized state-operated liquor stores on the basis of local option. As of now, 67 Tarheel counties allow the sale of booze and 33 do not. Eight of the so-called dry counties do allow the sale of wine and beer. Thus the spectrum runs from wet to dry to bone-dry. The confusion is further complicated by the fact that a good many Carolinians, like good people elsewhere, like to vote dry and drink wet.

What the lawgivers specifically have failed to do is decide whether Tarheels can pop a cork or bottle cap in public. By tacit understanding among law enforcement authorities, a good many communities enjoyed the practice of what statewide is called brown-bagging. That phase applies to the custom of taking a bottle in the liquor store brown paper bag to restaurants, night clubs, and stadiums. The mixer, when desired, is purchases at the scene.

Attorney Gen. Wade Bruton threw a drop-curve into the Tarheel pattern of conviviality last April when he ruled that toping in public is for the birds. The North Carolina Board of Alcoholic Control, faced with an ultimatum, took the state's chief law enforcement officer at his word. Two Charlotte night clubs then went into court and won a restraining order from Judge H. L. Riddle of the Mecklenburg County Superior Court.

THE STATE in turn appealed. Now the N.C. Supreme Court is seized of the problem. A ruling is expected in a week or so.

Brown-bagging is the practice in many states, not only in the South, which allow the sale of liquor only in state stores. Another is the selling of "club" memberships -- usually for $1 a year -- so that patrons can keep bottles in lockers, in bars and restaurants.

SUMPTUARY LAWS, particularly those dealing with drinking, die hard in the United States. States more lenient than North Carolina still require that booze be sold at certain times only with meals. The Nation's Capital until recently allowed drinking sitting down but ruled out standing drinking. In some states a patron cannot, but a waitress can, carry a drink from one table to another.

The lack of uniformity, not only intrastate but among states, has caused a great deal of hard feeling and some serious traffic problems. Officials of states neighboring New York, for example, have for years been urging that New York raise its drinking age from 18 to 21 years. The argument is not evangelical; governors of neighboring states are seriously worried about accidents caused by their own youngsters who drink in New York and then drive home.

Whatever the North Carolina court decides, the next state legislature is expected to work on the drinking laws. It may be that the brown bag will go the way of the Mason jar.

The car pool is a bit of a mystery.

Nobody knows for sure how many there are, because car pool riders are perhaps the only major mass-transit group that hasn't been counted and exhaustively analyzed by government and private researchers.

One thing many city planners do know about car pools: They'd like to see more of them.

"Encouraging people to use car pools may become a necessity for both private industry and government in the not-too-distant future," warns Michael Robinson, deputy commissioner of streets and sanitation for the city of Chicago. The reason is the pressure of more people with more cars on roads and parking facilities.

The only national figures that cast some light on the extent of car pooling, compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, show that the average passenger load on trips to work by private autos is 1.3 persons. That means that nearly 25 per cent of those who get to work by private vehicle probably do so in some sort of car-pool arrangement.

With three or more people, traveling by car pool usually is competitive with public transportation--and the more people in the pool, the cheaper it becomes. To conserve on parking space, many big companies offer the best spots on the firm's lot to car poolers. In Washington, D. C., the government has gone even further in encouraging the car pool for Federal employees. Except for high ranking officials, government workers can't get a parking space unless they are part of a car pool.

RIGHT-TO-WORK AND UNION MEMBERSHIP

The drive is under way to cause Congress to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits the states to pass Right-to-Work laws prohibiting compulsory unionsim as a condition of employment. In the 19 states which have done so, every worker voluntarily decides whether to join or not, and is protected from coercion by either the union or the employer.

The unions argue that Right-to-Work is, in effect, a union-busting tactic and is designed to play havoc with union membership and the effectiveness of the unions in obtaining benefits for labor.

In the light of that, some information provided by James R. Wason, Specialist in Labor Relations, Legislative Reference Service, Library of Congress, is extremely significant. He says: "For the period 1958 to 1962, at least, the trend in (AFL-CIO) membership in major union states without Right-to-Work laws is more unfavorable than in Right-to-Work states." Specifically, union membership went up in 40 per cent of the Right-to-Work states, as against 30 per cent in the non-Right-to-Work states.

One reason for this, perhaps, is that the unions must do a better job where membership is voluntary rather than compulsory. They must sell themselves on the basis of service and make joining up a more attractive proposition to the worker. And they must be far more responsive to the wishes of the rank-and-file.

Finally, if a man can't hold a job without joining and paying dues to an organization, irrespective of his wishes in the matter, an absolutely basic freedom is denied him. There is no more for that kind of coercion in a truly free society.

GREATEST GOOD EQUALS GREATEST GOODS

The seventh of the Ten Pillars of Economic Wisdom reads as follows: "The greatest good for the greatest number means, in its material sense, the greatest goods for the greatest number which, in turn, means the greatest productivity per worker."

"Hold on Tight, It May Get a Little Rough in Spots!"

As the reader will recognize, "the greatest good for the greatest number" is the goal which Karl Marx thought could be reached only through state ownership and management of the tools of production, along with centralized planning as to what should be produced. As the historical record shows, the opposite is true: private enterprise is well on the way to delivering what Communism has been promising since the 1917 Russian Revolution.

Marx predicted that the owners of power tools would selfishly restrict production to "scarcity levels" that would bring high prices from the "upper classes" and thus make it impossible for the workers to buy the things they made.

In his ignorance of practical economics, Marx thought the highly expensive tools of mass production would be operated profitably without pricing the products for mass consumption. The truth is the exact opposite. The self-interest of the tool owners demanded high production and low cost. That is why the selling prices of mass-produced products were dramatically reduced. In fact, until automatic textile machinery came into use, high grade cloth had been virtually beyond the purchasing power of the masses. This was a prime example of the "greatest goods for the greatest number."

Surprisingly enough, the pressures for limitations on the production permitted from the power tools came from the employees using them; they thought that high production would saturate the market and throw them out of work. These workers did not realize that human wants are inexhaustible and that, for most goods, the market always becomes larger as the price goes down.

To a great extent this misunderstanding of the effect of better tools still shows up in the public's attitude toward automation. Compared to some of the past improvement in tools, the impact of modern automated equipment is slight. In agriculture, for example, power tools have destroyed 90% of the farm jobs, but everybody has benefited because better jobs were waiting to be filled. Moreover, the farm jobs that are left are much easier and pay much more. Without automated equipment on the farm, consumers would be paying higher prices for food, and farm workers would be working longer for less pay.

RUNAWAY SPENDING

During the session of Congress which ended October 22, a total of approximately $144.6 billion dollars was appropriated. This included a supplemental appropriation of about $16 billion for the fiscal year ended last June 30, much of which was for conducting the war in Vietnam.

Far-reaching new programs were approved by Congress, and the heavy appropriations included only small down payments on some of them. The cost of many of these programs will increase from year to year if the past offers a fair basis for judging.

Three of the programs alone will create extremely heavy pressures for increased spending. These are the "demonstration cities," aid to elementary and secondary education, and the anti-poverty program.

Under the demonstration cities program the Federal government assumes a major part of the cost of rebuilding blighted metropolitan areas. The original program will cover 50 or 60 cities. And of course that will be only the beginning as one city after another demands to be included. It is estimated that $50 billion will be needed in 10 years in New york City alone.

In Federal aid to education, Congress authorized some $6 billion over a two-year period for assistance to elementary and secondary schools. This is a modest sum compared to what it will be as pressure mounts from school districts everywhere for some of the "free money" from Washington.

It will be hard to keep the cost of the politics-oriented anti-poverty program from growing substantially. The people pay; in taxes and in the cost of inflation caused by deficit spending. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Back in 1914 my father, Paul M. Pearson, then president of the Swarthmore Chautauqua, scheduled three religious speakers, Rabbi Steven S. Wise of New York, Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, famed Presbyterian minister of Brooklyn, and Father John Ryan, chairman of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, to speak in Pennsylvania communities.

This brought vigorous, almost violent opposition - chiefly against hearing Father Ryan. There was some opposition to hearing Rabbi Wise.

My father was not one to yield on an issue of free speech. In the end, Father Ryan and Rabbi Wise were received.

This was 50 years ago and times have changed. In 1958 Pennsylvania elected its first Catholic governor, David Lawrence, and this year the first Jew may become governor of Pennsylvania.

The Jewish candidate, Milton Shapp, is a businessman who built up a small fortune manufacturing TV antennas and electronics, and has now sold his factories so he would avoid even the most remote conflict of interest. Also he needed a small fortune to run his campaign.

Shapp's battle is one of the most significant in the entire United States. He is running not so much against the Republican candidate as against the entrenched interests which have long dominated Pennsylvania politics - the utility companies, the power companies, the railroads. The only alternative to their lobbies, Shapp claims, is a people's lobby.

He has accused these companies of avoiding real estate tax on most of their property. Based upon their 1964 profits, their tax base should have been $6.9 billion.

"Up in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties," said the turbulent candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, "The Pennsylvania Gas and Water Company owns 70,000 acres of land which it's keeping as a private game preserve. Its streams are stocked by the state of Pennsylvania. It allows no hunting by the public. And it pays only a pittance in taxes.

"In Northumberland county the Roaring Creek Water Company has 15,000 acres of land, which it set aside as a private hunting preserve," continues Shapp. "Its president, Douglas McWilliams, has been appointed to the State Game Commission, yet last year he was arrested for shooting over his quota of deer.

"Again the Roaring Creek Water Company pays only a pittance of taxes on this land," says the man who is running for governor of Pennsylvania. "If I am elected I am going to abolish the private game preserve for this game commissioner."

FAR WEST RIGHTISTS

The farther south and west you go, the more the Republican party drifts away from its moderate eastern leadership. In Montana, for instance, the Liberty Lobby, the John Birchites and other ultra rightists are mobilizing behind Gov. Tim Babcock, Republican, to try to defeat Sen. Lee Metcalf, a liberal Democrat.

For some time the right wing has been gaining strength in Montana. It tried to oust Roland Renne, as president of Montana State College if he didn't fire 22 professors whom the Birchites claimed were left wingers and pro-communist. President Renne refused, claimed some of them were among his best professors, that one of them had been guilty only of explaining the political creeds of the Scandinavian states long under labor-socialist governments.

Finally President Renne challenged Babcock by running against him for governor in 1964. Babcock won.

This fall Babcock, reinforced by his victory over Renne, is reaching for the Senate.

But while he damns Federal supervision of Federal projects, his trucking companies are making a fortune hauling concrete to the Yellowtail Dam, a Federal project.

The records of the Montana Railroad Commission show that Babcock and Lee Transport, Inc., was operating at a deficit for the year ending June 30, 1960. The total operating revenue was $1,230 and the net operating income showed a loss of $6,976. By 1962 the firm had an operating revenue of $28,793 but was still in the red by $15,349. Suddenly, after Babcock became lieutenant governor, he purchased $193,473 in equipment in 1963, and his operating revenue jumped up to $90,901, with a net operating income of $26,469.

Babcock became governor in 1964. Since then the finances of his two trucking companies have flourished even more. In 1964 the total trucking revenue was $328,525, and the net operating income was $75,683 - not bad when four years ago the governor's trucking firms were operating in the red to the tune of nearly $7,000.

Gov. Babcock has been charging malfeasance in Washington. He gets very much aroused over Bobby Baker's conflict of interest. But when it comes to his own trucking conflicts - well, that's another problem.

SUGAR LOBBY SCANDAL

One of the worst legislative scandals of the last congressional session was the manner in which lobbyists were permitted to write the sugar bill the way they wanted it, not the way the public needed it.

The sugar lobbyists were even permitted to sit on the secret sessions of the House Agriculture Committee under Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., when the public was barred. This is against all congressional rules, and in 1925 Sen. Hiram Bingham, Connecticut Republican, was censured for permitting a representative of the Connecticut manufacturers Association to attend such a closed-door session.

Only five committee members had the courage to follow the lead of courageous Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., in bucking the Sugar Lobby and voting against the sugar bill in committee. They were, in addition to Resnick; Lynn Stalbaum, Wis., John Mackie, Mich., Democrats, with Ralph Harvey, Ind., and Paul Findley, Ill., Republicans.

In contrast here are the members of the House Agriculture Committee who voted with the sugar lobbyists. The public should scrutinize the list carefully to see whether they deserve a negative vote on election day.

The Democrats were: Harold Cooley, N.C., W.R. Poage, Tex., E.C. Gathings, Ark., John McMillan, S.C., Thomas Abernethy, Miss., Watkins Abbitt, Va., Paul Jones, Mo., Harlan Hagen, Calif., Frank Stubblefield, Ky., Graham Purcell, Tex., James Morrison, La., Alec Olson, Minn., Spark Matsunaga, Hawaii, Maston O'Neal, Ga., Thomas Foley, Wash., Eligio de la Garza, Tex., Rolland Redlin, N.D., Burt Bandstra, Iowa, Stan Greigg, Iowa and Clair Callan, Neb.

The Republicans voting for the sugar bill were: Paul Dague, Pa., Page Belcher, Okla., Charles Teague, Calif., Catherine May, Wash., Delbert Latta, Ohio, Bob Dole, Kansas and Laurence Burton, Utah.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Science has confirmed the claim of many teen-agers that they actually can study better while listening to loud music. Tests showed, however, that this was true only of high school students, not of college students.

Psychologists say baseball players are at peak form at the age of 28, golfers from 25 to 35, bowlers from 30 to 34. Horse players often aren't at their best until 65, when they can devote their entire time to the game.

Liquor, which sometimes makes people act like monkeys, also can make monkeys act like people. Researchers have found that alcohol can calm the fears of monkeys, but they can become so fond of its tranquilizing effects that they become animal alcoholics.

Aren't you glad that your hungry child doesn't grow at the same rate as do the larvae of the monarch butterfly? If he did, in about two weeks you'd have an eight-ton kid on your hands.

Here is a surprise: you can get athlete's foot on your hands, too.

Quotable notables: "We are all like flies trying to crawl over the edge of the saucer." — Virginia Woolf.

They just won't leave our minds alone. The much-written-about LSD is just a forerunner. A mental health expert says that within a decade there will be "a hundredfold increase" of drugs that affect the mind.

Watch that match: Fires are growing at a faster rate than the U.S. population. The number of fires increased from 650,335 in 1942 to 309,771 in 1964.

History lesson: Can you name the first U.S. president elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the scholastic fraternity? He was John Quincy Adams, who also had a couple of other distinctions: He was the first U.S. president married abroad and the only president with a son named George Washington.

Worth Remembering: "Two things are bad for the heart — running uphill and running down people." — Elmer Leterman.

Big blow: Some 95 hurricanes — about two a year — have hit the continental United States in the last half-century and caused more than 5,000 deaths, fewer than are killed in some months by motor cars.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

President Johnson Warned By Aides '67 Will Be 'Toughest' Strike Year.

Washington, D. C.: --Certainly the White House never runs out of labor crises. Just a few minutes before the President's jet touched the runway last Wednesday night, the TV technicians were up in the air. They threatened to strike.

Their union wanted one more video man hired because another camera had been added for the President's report to the nation. For the moment it looked like the return of "Shane" instead of Lyndon Johnson would be screen fare.

Ten minutes before mike-time, it was settled. And not because the nation's prestige was involved, either. The broadcasting union just wasn't going to be disturbed by minor matters. It had a demand and it was going to make it, president or no president.

Though unseen by the country, the backstage melodrama was a portent of the times, a sign of things to come, a measure of the coming year.

Many of the strategically placed unions will take some mighty tough positions in '67 -- beginning with the teamsters in January and winding up with the auto workers just this side of '68.

Basically the union campaigns will be for money -- wage increases of far more than five per cent a week. That's next year's magic figure replacing this year's 3.2 per cent wage guidelines, set by the President who soon rued it -- because he discovered that his statisticians were bad politicians and his politicians were worse statisticians.

Mr. Johnson quickly discovered that figure swiftly becomes the minimum instead of the maximum. It becomes the operating base for unions to get twice and three times the guideline, depending on the power of the labor organization and the volume and strategic nature of the industry -- or industries -- it can tie up with a strike.

So with five per cent as the new base, the White House experts believe the unions will be asking for twice and even three times that -- 10 and 15 per cent wage package increases. What the labor leaders are saying, in effect, is that the White House just can't set any overall guideline for wage and welfare increases.

Furthermore, say the union officials, this should not be done even industry by industry. Pay hikes will have to be set plant by plant, even shop by shop.

The five per cent figure is good for a starter, say they. And if anyone takes the trouble to analyze what the railroad brotherhoods just agreed to, he'll note that five per cent is just a starter. They plan to ask for more later in 1967 -- in cash -- and more in benefits, pensions, holidays, welfare and shorter work weeks.

Just how did five per cent become the magic -- resting place -- figure?

It all goes back to a confidential report submitted last March 11 to leaders of the influential 3.5 million - member national construction and building trades council here. It was quietly written by labor's quiet man -- the owlish and gentle Nat Goldfinger --whom it would take a James Bond to find. He's the AFL-CIO's top researcher. This is what he said, in effect:

The cost of living went up by 1.7 per cent in 1965. This is the government's own figure, issued by the Consumer Price Index statisticians. So no one can dispute it.

Therefore, it should be added to the 3.2 per cent increase which is suggested by the federal wage guidelines. Otherwise, the actual wage increase received from a 3.2 per cent raise -- the actual purchasing power -- is worth less than half of what appears to be additional pay. Backing up this argument, Goldfinger said in his still unreported document:

"Therefore, even to get the Council of Economic Advisers' 3.2 guideline figure, in terms of real gains of buying power, you need a wage settlement of 4.9 per cent, excluding all other issues, such as wage inequities, etc.

"In other words, you need wage settlements of about 5 per cent this year merely to obtain a 3.2 per cent improvement in buying power. . "

Thus Goldfinger put the basic total increase at at least five per cent. And that is what the labor settlements were for the rest of the year -- on the airlines, at GE, on the railways and in a thousand manufacturing plants. In construction the employment cost increases ran far higher.

Now the big unions will point out that the cost of living certainly ran up in 1966. So the five per cent hike of 1966 will have to be merely a base for boosts totaling twice as much.

There will be terrific resistance to this on the industrial front. President Johnson's aides are telling him to expect '67 to be one of his toughest "labor years". There will be wide wage hikes, or there will be massive strikes.

Inflation? A wartime rank and file could not care less. No area will be too sacred to strike.

That was the President's homecoming.

The bodice was designed with a sweetheart neckline and long tapered sleeves with petal points over the hands. The floor-length bouffant skirt was made with wide ruffles of lace and swept into a graceful cathedral train.

Her veil of imported Spanish lace was arranged Madonna fashion over her hair and extended the full length of the train.

Unemployment Hits 8-Year Low

WASHINGTON AP -- The government said the nation's total number of unemployed dropped to 2,521 in October for the lowest level in eight years, but that there was evidence of a slowdown in the pressure on the tight job market.

At the same time, the Labor Department reported the biggest drop in wholesale food and industrial prices in four years, and an official described this as further evidence of a slowdown in the rate of the nation's economic growth.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said total employment rose 500,000 to 74.7 million in October but that the pressure to fill jobs with skilled workers is "a little less" in most industries.

"People have had time to catch up and adjust to the types of workers who are available and to train workers more adequately," Ross said.

Although the job picture for most Americans is still good, Ross said it is still difficult for minority groups such as Negroes and for the unskilled and uneducated to get employment.

Unemployment Hits 8-Year Low

WASHINGTON AP -- The government said the nation's total number of unemployed dropped to 2,521 in October for the lowest level in eight years, but that there was evidence of a slowdown in the pressure on the tight job market.

At the same time, the Labor Department reported the biggest drop in wholesale food and industrial prices in four years, and an official described this as further evidence of a slowdown in the rate of the nation's economic growth.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said total employment rose 500,000 to 74.7 million in October but that the pressure to fill jobs with skilled workers is "a little less" in most industries.

"People have had time to catch up and adjust to the types of workers who are available and to train workers more adequately," Ross said.

Although the job picture for most Americans is still good, Ross said it is still difficult for minority groups such as Negroes and for the unskilled and uneducated to get employment.

Johnson, De Marco Injured

Big Red Increases Lead In Eastern Division Standings

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Wilson did it again Sunday, intercepting a pass at a vital stage of a game, and the St. Louis Cardinals have padded their Eastern Conference lead despite the loss of Charley Johnson and Bob De Marco.

The lowly New York Giants, winners of only one game all season, had closed the Cards' lead to 20-17 and were nearing field goal range in the final period when Wilson picked off a Gary Wood pass for the clincher.

It was the seventh straight game in which the Cards' scrappy free safety had intercepted at least one pass, tying a National Football League record set by Washington's Paul Krause in 1964. Larry now has nine for the year, only five short of the NFL mark.

"The fellows who played the real game today were the rush men," said Wilson. "We had a game ball left over from the last Giant same because we didn't think anybody deserved it that time. We gave out two, one each to Chuck Walker and Sam Silas (the defensive tackles). You can't cover a man too long unless somebody gets to those guys (passers).

Coach Charley Winner, whose Cards gained when both Dallas and Cleveland were upset, was concerned about the injuries to Johnson, his No. 1 quarterback, and De Marco, who is always in the running for all-star center.

Johnson came up with a damaged right knee when he was thrown out of bounds after running for a first down on the Giants eight in the third quarter. He gave way to Terry Nofsinger who took the team in for the big TD on an eight-yard pass to Prentice Gautt.

"We don't know how badly Charley is hurt," said Winner.

"I remember when I was in Baltimore when George Shaw got hurt and we had to go with Johnny Unitas. Johnny wasn't too good at first but he improved. I think Terry will improve, too, if we have to use him."

De Marco suffered an injury to his right knee, possibly torn ligaments, and was replaced by guard Irv Goode in the second period.

A 69-yard TD pass from Johnson to Jackie Smith, Nofsinger's toss to Gautt and field goals of 20 and 41 yards by Jim Bakken accounted for the Card scoring.

The Giants, held without a first down in the first half but leading 7-3 on a 31-yard run by Jerry Hillebrand on an interception, came to life in the last quarter.

Earl Morrall, the No. 1 quarterback, suffered a broken bone in his right hand in a dummy scrimmage Saturday so the big job fell on Gary Wood.

Wood passed the Giants into range for a 26-yard field goal by Pete Gogolak early in the fourth. Then he moved the club 80 yards in five plays, capped by a seven-yard pass to Joe Morrison.

The Giants were on the way again when Wilson intercepted the pass on his own 30.

Winner said he would go with Nofsinger if Johnson can't get back into action. Sherman said he would look around to see if he can find a helper for Wood. Morrall will be out at least three weeks.

"If I can't find anybody, I will call up Joe Morrison's wife and tell her he is married to me for the rest of the year," said Allie. "Then Joe and I will go to work."

Indians Downed 20-7

Springfield Takes Conference Lead

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, inched closer to the MIAA Conference title here Saturday night by defeating host Southeast Missouri State, 20-7, before 6,000 chilled fans at Houck stadium.

Both teams had been tied in the conference until Saturday night. Each team had a 3-0 conference

Southwest used one fumble, four pass interceptions and 15 years of frustration to hang one on the hosting Indians. It was the Bears' first win at Houck stadium since 1951 when they turned the trick with a 20-7 win.

The Bears' four pass interceptions also set a new school record, breaking the old one set back in 1957.

Cape State's mighty offense was held to a total of 61 yards gained rushing. Walt Smallwood led the Indians with 49 years on 19 carries. He was set back for a total of 15 yards.

The game opened with the Indians receiving at the west end of the field, after winning the opening game toss.

Southeast's offensive machine stalled after moving the ball only three yards and was forced to punt.

Both teams exchanged the ball four times until with 6:06 left in the first period, Springfield's Jerry Howell, a 210-pound fullback, plunged one yard for the score. Pat Hogan converted on the extra point for a Springfield lead of 7-0.

The Bears' Sam McDowell, 310-pounds of man, picked off a deflected Greg Brune pass and carried 10 yards before being brought down by three Indian players on their own 27. Southwest's Tom Young fired a pass to Bill Douglass good for 22-yards that set up Howell's score.

Dennis Scott, Springfield, picked up a fumble by State's Smallwood and ran it in for a score but had it called back on a penalty. The official placed the ball on Cape's 25 yard line from which the Bears moved in seven plays for another score by Howell, this one coming on a one yard plunge with 1:05 left in the half. Hogan's extra point attempt failed and the Bears took a 13-0 lead into the dressing room with them at half-time.

Half-time statistics showed Southwest ahead in every department, except passing yardage.

SEMO had accumulated five first downs, 44 yards in 17 attempts rushing, completed five of 11 passes for 60 yards, averaged 35.2 yards per punt, lost one fumble, and had two passes intercepted.

Springfield racked up seven first downs, 74 yards on 26 rushing attempts, completed three of seven passes for 43 yards, averaged 41 yards per punt, and lost one fumble.

Smallwood had led the Indians in rushing with a mere 28 yards on 10 carries. Howell and Ardie McCoy paced Springfield with 31 and 28 yards.

Perhaps the most interesting and enjoyable thing of the evening to the Indians followers was the performance of SEMO state's, Golden Eagles Marching band at half-time. Fans were down hearted about the first half results and the precision marching along with the fine music gave the fans a lift.

State kicked off the the Bears to open the third period.

Springfield began a drive that halted on their own 25 after starting on their 20. Four penalties set the Bears back on their opening drive as they reached their 42 but was set back on 24 yards in penalties.

The Indians offense blocked a punt attempt by the Bears' Hogan and recovered on their 12. Smallwood carried the pigskin over from the one yard line five plays later with the clock reading 9:56 left in the third period. Bruce Nall added the extra point which turned out to be the last score for the hard fighting Indians.

As the third period ended the Bears, who had started a drive on their own 14, had reached their 40.

With 10:30 left in the final period, McCoy went over for six points after 11 plays into the final period. Hogan's extra point attempt was good and Springfield held their 20-7 lead early in the fourth period.

The Indians threatened but were thrown back as quarterback, Greg Bruen was thrown for losses of 14 and 10 yards after reaching the Bears' 38 yard line. The game ended with State on their 34.

Missouri Falls To Colorado

UCLA Drops From Unbeaten Ranks, Suffer 16-3 Loss

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

The glitter of an unbeaten season and a national major college football championship remains undimmed for Notre Dame and Michigan State as their showdown game grows nearer, but some of the bloom is off the rose for UCLA.

Top-ranked Notre Dame and No. 2 Michigan State, which meet at East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 19, rolled on Saturday with easy triumphs. Notre Dame, 7-0, trounced Pittsburgh 40-0, and Michigan State, 8-0, smashed Iowa 56-7.

But it was a different story for UCLA, gunning for a second straight trip to the Rose Bowl. The third-ranked Bruins dropped from the unbeaten ranks by losing to Washington 16-3, and now must beat Stanford next Saturday and Southern California Nov. 19 to have a chance for the trip to Pasadena.

UCLA wasn't the only previous unbeaten team to feel the sting of defeat. Seventh-ranked Florida suffered its first loss, 27-10 at the hands of Georgia, Missouri was beaten 26-0 by Colorado at Columbia, on the heels of a 35-0 whipping by Nebraska, but two coaches had a warning for OU.

"Missouri is as tough a defensive team as we've played," said Eddie Crowder, Colorado coach. "It's a much better team than its last two scores would indicate."

Dan Devine, Missouri coach, said, "We will bounce back."

Missouri held Buff quarterback Dan Kelly to his season low of 52 yards, 45 of it on one play, and contained Wilmer Cooks and William Harris.

Each team lost three fumbles in a hard-hitting game, but Colorado converted its three for a 13-0 lead, then killed Missouri with Ike Howard's 99-yard interception touchdown.

Colorado, with All - Big Eight defensive end Sam Harris probably out for the year with a knee injury, plays at Kansas. Iowa State is at K-State.

Colorado moved into third place at 4-2 and kept its bowl chances alive. Oklahoma also is in the bowl picture. Nebraska can have its choice, but may go for a re-match with Alabama, this time in the Sugar Bowl.

"We couldn't play any harder, and nobody has defensed Colorado as well as we did, but you can't keep giving them the ball," Devine said.

"Earl Denny must be hurt worse than we thought. Ray Thorpe will take over for him. We will stay with Dan Sharp at quarterback -- he'll be a good one with experience."

The only unbeaten-untied teams remaining to challenge Notre Dame and Michigan State are No. 4 Alabama, fifth-ranked Georgia Tech and Nebraska, No. 6.

Notre Dame's offense sputtered in the first half against Pitt, which has won just once, and the Irish left the field at intermission ahead only 7-0. However, Nick Eddy ignited them with an 85-yard touchdown return of the kickoff opening the second half.

Michigan State took affront at a quick Iowa touchdown and turned Clint Jones loose on the Hawkeyes. Jones rushed for 239 yards, including runs of 79 and 70 yards, for a Big Ten individual game record. The Spartans play Indiana before meeting Notre Dame, which takes on Duke next Saturday.

Thrice-beaten Washington bottled up UCLA's brilliant quarterback Gary Began and held halfback Mel Farr to 32 yards in stopping the Bruins, now 7-1 over-all and 2-1 in the Pacific-8 conference.

Southern California, 7-1 over-all and 4-0 in the Pacific Eight walloped California 35-9. The ninth-ranked Trojans now have an off date to prepare for UCLA.

Georgia kept constant pressure on talented quarterback Steve Spurrier of Florida, now 7-1, and rallied in the second half for its victory over the Gators.

Alabama, 7-0 and tied with Georgia for first in the Southeastern Conference with a 5-0 mark, had little trouble in beating Louisiana State 21-0. The Crimson Tide is seeking an unprecedented third straight National title.

Georgia Tech, 8-0, had to sweat out a last-ditch field goal attempt which failed for a 14-13 victory over Virginia.

Nebraska, 8-0, downed Kansas 24-13 and moved nearer its fourth straight Big Eight Conference championship. The Cornhuskers are 5-0 in conference play.

Eighth - ranked Arkansas stayed in the race for the Southwest Conference crown with a 31-20 defeat of Rice.

Johnson, De Marco Injured

Big Red Increases Lead In Eastern Division Standings

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Wilson did it again Sunday, intercepting a pass at a vital stage of a game, and the St. Louis Cardinals have padded their Eastern Conference lead despite the loss of Charley Johnson and Bob De Marco.

The lowly New York Giants, winners of only one game all season, had closed the Cards' lead to 20-17 and were nearing field goal range in the final period when Wilson picked off a Gary Wood pass for the clincher.

It was the seventh straight game in which the Cards' scrappy free safety had intercepted at least one pass, tying a National Football League record set by Washington's Paul Krause in 1964. Larry now has nine for the year, only five short of the NFL mark.

"The fellows who played the real game today were the rush men," said Wilson. "We had a game ball left over from the last Giant same because we didn't think anybody deserved it that time. We gave out two, one each to Chuck Walker and Sam Silas (the defensive tackles). You can't cover a man too long unless somebody gets to those guys (passers).

Coach Charley Winner, whose Cards gained when both Dallas and Cleveland were upset, was concerned about the injuries to Johnson, his No. 1 quarterback, and De Marco, who is always in the running for all-star center.

Johnson came up with a damaged right knee when he was thrown out of bounds after running for a first down on the Giants eight in the third quarter. He gave way to Terry Nofsinger who took the team in for the big TD on an eight-yard pass to Prentice Gautt.

"We don't know how badly Charley is hurt," said Winner.

"I remember when I was in Baltimore when George Shaw got hurt and we had to go with Johnny Unitas. Johnny wasn't too good at first but he improved. I think Terry will improve, too, if we have to use him."

De Marco suffered an injury to his right knee, possibly torn ligaments, and was replaced by guard Irv Goode in the second period.

A 69-yard TD pass from Johnson to Jackie Smith, Nofsinger's toss to Gautt and field goals of 20 and 41 yards by Jim Bakken accounted for the Card scoring.

The Giants, held without a first down in the first half but leading 7-3 on a 31-yard run by Jerry Hillebrand on an interception, came to life in the last quarter.

Earl Morrall, the No. 1 quarterback, suffered a broken bone in his right hand in a dummy scrimmage Saturday so the big job fell on Gary Wood.

Wood passed the Giants into range for a 26-yard field goal by Pete Gogolak early in the fourth. Then he moved the club 80 yards in five plays, capped by a seven-yard pass to Joe Morrison.

The Giants were on the way again when Wilson intercepted the pass on his own 30.

Winner said he would go with Nofsinger if Johnson can't get back into action. Sherman said he would look around to see if he can find a helper for Wood. Morrall will be out at least three weeks.

"If I can't find anybody, I will call up Joe Morrison's wife and tell her he is married to me for the rest of the year," said Allie. "Then Joe and I will go to work."

Indians Downed 20-7

Springfield Takes Conference Lead

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, inched closer to the MIAA Conference title here Saturday night by defeating host Southeast Missouri State, 20-7, before 6,000 chilled fans at Houck stadium.

Both teams had been tied in the conference until Saturday night. Each team had a 3-0 conference

Southwest used one fumble, four pass interceptions and 15 years of frustration to hang one on the hosting Indians. It was the Bears' first win at Houck stadium since 1951 when they turned the trick with a 20-7 win.

The Bears' four pass interceptions also set a new school record, breaking the old one set back in 1957.

Cape State's mighty offense was held to a total of 61 yards gained rushing. Walt Smallwood led the Indians with 49 years on 19 carries. He was set back for a total of 15 yards.

The game opened with the Indians receiving at the west end of the field, after winning the opening game toss.

Southeast's offensive machine stalled after moving the ball only three yards and was forced to punt.

Both teams exchanged the ball four times until with 6:06 left in the first period, Springfield's Jerry Howell, a 210-pound fullback, plunged one yard for the score. Pat Hogan converted on the extra point for a Springfield lead of 7-0.

The Bears' Sam McDowell, 310-pounds of man, picked off a deflected Greg Brune pass and carried 10 yards before being brought down by three Indian players on their own 27. Southwest's Tom Young fired a pass to Bill Douglass good for 22-yards that set up Howell's score.

Dennis Scott, Springfield, picked up a fumble by State's Smallwood and ran it in for a score but had it called back on a penalty. The official placed the ball on Cape's 25 yard line from which the Bears moved in seven plays for another score by Howell, this one coming on a one yard plunge with 1:05 left in the half. Hogan's extra point attempt failed and the Bears took a 13-0 lead into the dressing room with them at half-time.

Half-time statistics showed Southwest ahead in every department, except passing yardage.

SEMO had accumulated five first downs, 44 yards in 17 attempts rushing, completed five of 11 passes for 60 yards, averaged 35.2 yards per punt, lost one fumble, and had two passes intercepted.

Springfield racked up seven first downs, 74 yards on 26 rushing attempts, completed three of seven passes for 43 yards, averaged 41 yards per punt, and lost one fumble.

Smallwood had led the Indians in rushing with a mere 28 yards on 10 carries. Howell and Ardie McCoy paced Springfield with 31 and 28 yards.

Perhaps the most interesting and enjoyable thing of the evening to the Indians followers was the performance of SEMO state's, Golden Eagles Marching band at half-time. Fans were down hearted about the first half results and the precision marching along with the fine music gave the fans a lift.

State kicked off the the Bears to open the third period.

Springfield began a drive that halted on their own 25 after starting on their 20. Four penalties set the Bears back on their opening drive as they reached their 42 but was set back on 24 yards in penalties.

The Indians offense blocked a punt attempt by the Bears' Hogan and recovered on their 12. Smallwood carried the pigskin over from the one yard line five plays later with the clock reading 9:56 left in the third period. Bruce Nall added the extra point which turned out to be the last score for the hard fighting Indians.

As the third period ended the Bears, who had started a drive on their own 14, had reached their 40.

With 10:30 left in the final period, McCoy went over for six points after 11 plays into the final period. Hogan's extra point attempt was good and Springfield held their 20-7 lead early in the fourth period.

The Indians threatened but were thrown back as quarterback, Greg Bruen was thrown for losses of 14 and 10 yards after reaching the Bears' 38 yard line. The game ended with State on their 34.

Missouri Falls To Colorado

UCLA Drops From Unbeaten Ranks, Suffer 16-3 Loss

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

The glitter of an unbeaten season and a national major college football championship remains undimmed for Notre Dame and Michigan State as their showdown game grows nearer, but some of the bloom is off the rose for UCLA.

Top-ranked Notre Dame and No. 2 Michigan State, which meet at East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 19, rolled on Saturday with easy triumphs. Notre Dame, 7-0, trounced Pittsburgh 40-0, and Michigan State, 8-0, smashed Iowa 56-7.

But it was a different story for UCLA, gunning for a second straight trip to the Rose Bowl. The third-ranked Bruins dropped from the unbeaten ranks by losing to Washington 16-3, and now must beat Stanford next Saturday and Southern California Nov. 19 to have a chance for the trip to Pasadena.

UCLA wasn't the only previous unbeaten team to feel the sting of defeat. Seventh-ranked Florida suffered its first loss, 27-10 at the hands of Georgia, Missouri was beaten 26-0 by Colorado at Columbia, on the heels of a 35-0 whipping by Nebraska, but two coaches had a warning for OU.

"Missouri is as tough a defensive team as we've played," said Eddie Crowder, Colorado coach. "It's a much better team than its last two scores would indicate."

Dan Devine, Missouri coach, said, "We will bounce back."

Missouri held Buff quarterback Dan Kelly to his season low of 52 yards, 45 of it on one play, and contained Wilmer Cooks and William Harris.

Each team lost three fumbles in a hard-hitting game, but Colorado converted its three for a 13-0 lead, then killed Missouri with Ike Howard's 99-yard interception touchdown.

Colorado, with All - Big Eight defensive end Sam Harris probably out for the year with a knee injury, plays at Kansas. Iowa State is at K-State.

Colorado moved into third place at 4-2 and kept its bowl chances alive. Oklahoma also is in the bowl picture. Nebraska can have its choice, but may go for a re-match with Alabama, this time in the Sugar Bowl.

"We couldn't play any harder, and nobody has defensed Colorado as well as we did, but you can't keep giving them the ball," Devine said.

"Earl Denny must be hurt worse than we thought. Ray Thorpe will take over for him. We will stay with Dan Sharp at quarterback -- he'll be a good one with experience."

The only unbeaten-untied teams remaining to challenge Notre Dame and Michigan State are No. 4 Alabama, fifth-ranked Georgia Tech and Nebraska, No. 6.

Notre Dame's offense sputtered in the first half against Pitt, which has won just once, and the Irish left the field at intermission ahead only 7-0. However, Nick Eddy ignited them with an 85-yard touchdown return of the kickoff opening the second half.

Michigan State took affront at a quick Iowa touchdown and turned Clint Jones loose on the Hawkeyes. Jones rushed for 239 yards, including runs of 79 and 70 yards, for a Big Ten individual game record. The Spartans play Indiana before meeting Notre Dame, which takes on Duke next Saturday.

Thrice-beaten Washington bottled up UCLA's brilliant quarterback Gary Began and held halfback Mel Farr to 32 yards in stopping the Bruins, now 7-1 over-all and 2-1 in the Pacific-8 conference.

Southern California, 7-1 over-all and 4-0 in the Pacific Eight walloped California 35-9. The ninth-ranked Trojans now have an off date to prepare for UCLA.

Georgia kept constant pressure on talented quarterback Steve Spurrier of Florida, now 7-1, and rallied in the second half for its victory over the Gators.

Alabama, 7-0 and tied with Georgia for first in the Southeastern Conference with a 5-0 mark, had little trouble in beating Louisiana State 21-0. The Crimson Tide is seeking an unprecedented third straight National title.

Georgia Tech, 8-0, had to sweat out a last-ditch field goal attempt which failed for a 14-13 victory over Virginia.

Nebraska, 8-0, downed Kansas 24-13 and moved nearer its fourth straight Big Eight Conference championship. The Cornhuskers are 5-0 in conference play.

Eighth - ranked Arkansas stayed in the race for the Southwest Conference crown with a 31-20 defeat of Rice.

Swan Lake Population Is New Record

SUMNER -- The Swan Lake Zone of north-central Missouri has a record population of Canada geese, according to results of a survey on Oct. 31.

The aerial survey by Missouri Conservation Department biologists, showed there were 129,000 Canadas at the Swan Lake National Wildlife Refuge and 9,000 more at Fountain Grove State Wildlife Area nearby. Both areas are in the zone.

The 138,000 total population is the highest on record for the two areas. The previous high was 133,000 in 1955.

With a harvest limit of 25,000 Canadas in the zone, the special goose season there could be closed early. The season dates are Oct. 20 through Dec. 28 unless the limit is reached earlier.

The harvest through Nov. 2 was 16,968. With 17,185 hunters tallied in the zone so far, the success ratio is almost one bird per hunter.

Other species counted at Swan Lake in the survey were 17,000 blue and snow geese and 55,550 ducks. At Fountain Grove there were 175 blues and snows and 28,800 ducks.

The inventory also took in the Missouri River and the Squaw Creek Zone of northwest Missouri. On the river were 400 ducks, and at Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge there were 107,350 ducks, 4,215 Canadas, 38,650 blues and 78,300 snows. At the George Opp Farm north of Squaw Creek were 28,800 blues and 45,700 snows. Thomas Hill Reservoir in Randolph and Macon Counties had 12,750 ducks.

The goose season in the Squaw Creek Zone is the same as that for Swan Lake, except that Canadas are open only from Oct. 20 through Nov. 18 and the limit on them is one instead of two daily.

The statewide goose season, excepting Swan Lake and Squaw Creek, is Oct. 20 through Dec. 3 and Dec. 22 through Jan. 15. It will not be affected by a possible early closure in the Swan Lake Zone.

Firearms Deer Season Opens

JEFFERSON CITY -- If the archery season so far is any indication, Missouri might have a record - breaking firearms deer season on its hands.

The archery deer kill during the first month of the two- and - a - half month season -- through Oct. 31 -- is 302.

The harvest for the same period last year was 199.

The year's October figure includes 16 deer taken in the annual Caney Mountain Refuge hunt, where as many as 250 hunters from six states participated.

Weather has been exceptionally fine so far for the archers, with most mornings cool and bright. An added feature this year -- as in most years in Missouri -- was the brilliant fall display of colors.

Last year's total archery harvest was 371, with 10,913 archery tags issued. The archery season will end Dec. 15.

The firearms season will be Saturday through Nov. 18 this year, and a hunter may take one deer on a firearms tag and one on an archery tag if his luck is extremely good. Last year's firearms harvest was 18,785 deer taken by 109,579 hunters.

This season, all counties north of the Missouri River except Warren are open to any - deer hunting. Besides Warren, bucks - only counties, south of the river, are Barton, Bates, Cape Girardeau, Cass, Crawford, Dade, Dunklin, Franklin, Gasconade, Jefferson, Lafayette, Lawrence, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Pettis, Phelps, Folk, St. Louis, Saline, Scott, Vernon and Washington.

AND NOW BACK TO THE BOUNCING BALL

As the professional basketball season moves into gear, the usual question is asked for the umpteenth time. Will the Celtics finally crumble? The greatest sports dynasty in history is the story of the Boston Celtics. They have won eight straight World Championships. They have won nine out of ten Eastern Division flags. They are and have been the most fantastic story in the last decade and yet not enough stir has been made of them or professional basketball itself.

One would think there would have been plenty of books or even a television documentary on this amazing team, but not yet. Someday, surely, someone will do the Celtic story. Year after year, a top Celtic has retired and each year the opposition claims "the Celts can be had." Last year they lost the Eastern Division battle to Wilt Chamberlain's 76'ers, but fought back to defeat the Royals and the 76'ers in the playoffs, and then went on to murder the Lakers in the championship games.

After all, in basketball you don't have the numerical amount of players you do in baseball and football. Injury-wise, everyone talks about pro football being the toughest game to play, but basketball players would dispute that theory quite vehemently. They have no physical protection. This is a game of amazing speed as well as strength. Small wonder that pro football teams would like to have some of the pro basketball players as receivers.

But getting back to the Celts. When stars like Sharman, Cousy, Ramsey, Heinsohn retire it's time for a new team to win, but it doesn't happen. Perhaps as most people claim, the Celts are made up of two men; former coach "Red" Auerbach and present coach Bill Russell. Maybe so. There's no detracting from the importance and skills of both men, but there are still other players on the team that must contribute to the overall win. The Celts this year are battling the law of averages. All figures point to the 76'ers doing it this year. They walloped the Celts in their first meeting but so what? As last year's records show, the 76'ers had it made when they won the Eastern Division, but the Celts were the final winners.

My buddy, Jack Twyman, will be doing the game-of-the-week this season, and I hope this year's coverage will be more exciting than last year's, when the announcer seemed more concerned with various golf matches than with what was happening on the floor in front of the home viewers. Basketball still has to be sold to major league fans. Television will be a great help but a dull, nonchalant following of the game just doesn't make sense when there's so much action. All one has to hear is the radio announcer's coverage of the same game and you wonder if there are two different events taking place. Basketball, like our other great sports, has to be sold like show business. It's entertainment. A lackadaisical attitude towards the sport is not going to spurt sales at the box office, despite the success of the Celts.

Coaches Announced For All-Star Classic

ST. LOUIS - Coaching staffs made up of former high school, college and professional stars were announced Friday for St. Louis' first Missouri High School All-Star Football Game.

Clarence A. (Stub) Muhl, head coach of the North squad, and Bob Davis, head coach of the South squad, announced the names of their associate coaches. The game will be at 1 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3, at Busch Stadium in St. Louis.

The South staff will be:

Bob Koplar, former Ladue High School All Conference and Honorable Mention All District tackle, who played at Cornell College in 1960 and 1961.

Al Huenfeld, former Washington University halfback, previously named as equipment manager, will also be backfield coach. He played at Riverview Gardens high school where he was First Team All Conference and Honorable Mention All State.

Tim Davis, nine years old, will be manager responsible for taking care of practice balls, towels and other needs. He now plays Little Leauge football.

Ron Lurie, All Conference, All Star and All District at Ladue high school, was a starting guard for the Missouri Tigers and was on the All Big Eight Conference Scholastic Team. Now in Washington University Law School, he assisted in coaching at Missouri and Washington University.

Bob Kolbrenner, former Ladue defensive star and kicking specialist, was considered for Little All-American honors at Washington University until an injury put him on the sidelines. He set a field goal record of four field goals in one season at Washington University.

Jerry Groom, an All-American center at Notre Dame, was All-Pro while with the Chicago Cardinals from 1951 to 1955.

John McCoy, center and guard at Southeast Missouri College in Cape Girardeau. He is now a coach in the Little League where one of his assistants is Bob Davis.

Coach Davis plans to name one more coach to his team shortly.

The North staff will be:

Paul Douglass, who played at Beaumont high school and was on the University of Illinois Rose Bowl team in the 1940's before playing with the New York Giants.

Bob Steuber, who played at Christian Brothers College and was All-American at the University of Missouri before playing professional ball with Cleveland Browns, Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Dons, and Buffalo Bills.

Don Anderson, now of Hannibal, Mo., played at Mount Vernon, Ill., high school. He was All-State at Mississippi Junior College and later All Conference and Little All-American at Southeast in Cape Girardeau.

Anderson later coached at Fulton, Mo., Benton, Ill., and Fredericktown, Mo., where his team won three conference titles.

Arnie Edwards played under Washington University Coach Dave Puddington at Fairmont high school, Kettering, Ohio; Kent State University, and Washington University. He was Honorable Mention Little All-American at Washington.

Marlin Craig, after playing at Southwest high school, went to Southwest Missouri State in Springfield where he was All-Conference. While in the Army at Fort Leonard Wood he was second team All-Army and later played professional ball with the Hamilton, Ontario Tigercats and the St. Louis Knights. He coached at Jackson, DeSoto and Perryville, Mo.

Dick Braznell, a University City graduate, also played football at Missouri for four years and part of one season with the Chicago Bears. He was All District at University City and All Big-Seven at Missouri.

Jack Waterbury was a defensive back for two years at Albion, Mich., high school under Muddy Waters. Although hampered by bad knees, he later played at Country Day school and Brown University. He is now coaching Little League ball with Dick Braznell.

Gene Pepper played at McBride high school before going on to the University of Missouri. He played professional ball in the 1950's with the Washington Redskins and Baltimore Colts.

Bill Comfort was All State at University City in 1956. He played football at Missouri during his freshman and sophomore years.

Jim Renz of Rawlings will be equipment manager for the North All-Stars, assisted by Roy Newsom of Russell Sporting Goods.

Huenfeld, who works at Rawlings and who is both coach and equipment manager for the South Squad, will be assisted by Frank Brady and Dave Giesler of Giesler-Jorgen Sporting Goods.

The players will stay at the Chase Park-Plaza Hotel, where a special training table will be set up in Marty's Crystal Terrace.

Special buses will take the athletes to the practice fields in nearby Forest Park, Berra Park and Fairgrounds Park.

Tickets are also on sale at the counter inside the 12th and Delmar entrance to the Globe between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Swan Lake Population Is New Record

SUMNER -- The Swan Lake Zone of north-central Missouri has a record population of Canada geese, according to results of a survey on Oct. 31.

The aerial survey by Missouri Conservation Department biologists, showed there were 129,000 Canadas at the Swan Lake National Wildlife Refuge and 9,000 more at Fountain Grove State Wildlife Area nearby. Both areas are in the zone.

The 138,000 total population is the highest on record for the two areas. The previous high was 133,000 in 1955.

With a harvest limit of 25,000 Canadas in the zone, the special goose season there could be closed early. The season dates are Oct. 20 through Dec. 28 unless the limit is reached earlier.

The harvest through Nov. 2 was 16,968. With 17,185 hunters tallied in the zone so far, the success ratio is almost one bird per hunter.

Other species counted at Swan Lake in the survey were 17,000 blue and snow geese and 55,550 ducks. At Fountain Grove there were 175 blues and snows and 28,800 ducks.

The inventory also took in the Missouri River and the Squaw Creek Zone of northwest Missouri. On the river were 400 ducks, and at Squaw Creek National Wildlife Refuge there were 107,350 ducks, 4,215 Canadas, 38,650 blues and 78,300 snows. At the George Opp Farm north of Squaw Creek were 28,800 blues and 45,700 snows. Thomas Hill Reservoir in Randolph and Macon Counties had 12,750 ducks.

The goose season in the Squaw Creek Zone is the same as that for Swan Lake, except that Canadas are open only from Oct. 20 through Nov. 18 and the limit on them is one instead of two daily.

The statewide goose season, excepting Swan Lake and Squaw Creek, is Oct. 20 through Dec. 3 and Dec. 22 through Jan. 15. It will not be affected by a possible early closure in the Swan Lake Zone.

Firearms Deer Season Opens

JEFFERSON CITY -- If the archery season so far is any indication, Missouri might have a record - breaking firearms deer season on its hands.

The archery deer kill during the first month of the two - and - a - half month season -- through Oct. 31 -- is 302.

The harvest for the same period last year was 199.

The year's October figure includes 16 deer taken in the annual Caney Mountain Refuge hunt, where as many as 250 hunters from six states participated.

Weather has been exceptionally fine so far for the archers, with most mornings cool and bright. An added feature this year -- as in most years in Missouri -- was the brilliant fall display of colors.

Last year's total archery harvest was 371, with 10,913 archery tags issued. The archery season will end Dec. 15.

The firearms season will be Saturday through Nov. 18 this year, and a hunter may take one deer on a firearms tag and one on an archery tag if his luck is extremely good. Last year's firearms harvest was 18,785 deer taken by 109,579 hunters.

This season, all counties north of the Missouri River except Warren are open to any - deer hunting. Besides Warren, bucks - only counties, south of the river, are Barton, Bates, Cape Girardeau, Cass, Crawford, Dade, Dunklin, Franklin, Gasconade, Jefferson, Lafayette, Lawrence, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Pettis, Phelps, Folk, St. Louis, Saline, Scott, Vernon and Washington.

Third Man Key Figure in Maryland Governor's Race

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The outcome of Maryland's gubernatorial election Nov. 8 may very well hinge on how strongly Hyman A. Pressman runs.

Pressman, Baltimore's colorful city comptroller, is a former Democrat running as an independent in the three-way race that has attracted national attention.

He could tip the victory to either Republican Spiro T. Agnew or Democrat George P. Mahoney. Or he could, possibly, score a major surprise and win.

The effect of Pressman's candidacy is as impossible to gauge as the open occupancy issue, which contributed to Mahoney's victory in the primary and which is expected to remain a factor in the general election.

Pressman, 52, a political maverick, was elected city comptroller three years ago on a Republican fusion ticket after having lost the nomination in the Democratic primary.

His chief strength appears to be in the Baltimore area, but he also is well-known in other sections for the taxpayer suits he has filed over the years against city and state officials and for his advocacy of a state-operated lottery.

While political observers speculate on which of the other candidates the red-haired Baltimore lawyer will hurt more, Pressman confidently predicts he will be the winner.

Mahoney, 64, a Baltimore County paving contractor, is making his fourth try for the governorship after six unsuccessful races for governor or U.S. senator. He was the surprise winner of a Democratic primary in which he stressed his opposition to open housing legislation with the slogan, "Your home is your castle — protect it."

Agnew, 47, a lawyer and head of Baltimore County's government, said at a recent political gathering that his campaign stressing such state problems as tax reform, education, rapid transit and water pollution "has not caught fire" but he remained hopeful it might do so.

Pressman thinks his own candidacy will rob Agnew of any widespread Democratic support, and that he will also take away voters from Mahoney in working-class areas where they have both run well.

Magna Carta and the Rule of Law

In this way the seventeenth century interpretation of Magna Carta as the Englishman's charter of liberty, and of the medieval common law as enshrining the rights of free men and of property, passed into American legal thinking.

But just as important as legal education and legal literature in sustaining this dialogue across the Atlantic was the practice of hearing appeals from colonial courts in the Privy Council. In all, some 265 cases were carried to the Privy Council from America between 1680 and 1780, and giving its decision the council attempted to maintain the general principles of the common law of England. In using its power to nullify colonial legislation, it fostered the notion that a statute could be an ephemeral thing, an important point or origin of the modern American doctrine of judicial review of legislation.

Although the subordination of the American colonies to the English parliament and Privy Council helped foster a common law, it did not foster a common polity. In fact it was one of the most potent reasons for the eventual break between England and America. Once again the power of the executive conflicted with the rights and interests of the subject, and once again the subjects had an interest in bringing Magna Carta and the common law into play, this time to sustain their resistance to the government of George III. But now it was from the seventeenth century interpretations of the charter that the lawyers and propagandists drew their arguments; what medieval legislation and tradition had been to Coke, Coke's commentary on Magna Carta and that tradition were to the lawyers of the America revolution. Once again opposition to the executive was grounded upon law; once again statesmen went to history to find justification for their politics. And once again the issue was settled finally by force.

The close ties between England and America had made wide spread the assumptions that there was a "law of the land" to which governmental action was bound to conform; that the colonists were entitled to the protection of that law in their relations with the English government; that the colonists, though Americans, enjoyed the "fundamental rights of Englishmen," rights which were embodied most especially in Magna Carta; and that the government of George III was violating those rights.

But there was also current in revolutionary America an alternative body of political ideas, derived ultimately from John Locke, which grounded political obligation on natural right, and this theory, as well as the theory of the immemorial rights of Englishmen, was brought into play in the political conflicts that preceded the Declaration of Independence -- and is most clearly seen in the Declaration itself. It was widely assumed that there was a felicitous coincidence between natural law and the laws of England. As John Adams succinctly put it on the eve of revolution:

(T)he liberty, the unalienable, indefeasible rights of men, the honor and dignity of human nature, the grandeur and glory of the public, and the universal happiness of individuals, were never so skilfully and successfully consulted as in that most excellent monument of human art, the common law of England.

Demand Higher Pay for Jounalists

COLUMBIA -- One-hundred and thirteen of the 177 students who were graduated in 1966 from the University of Missouri School of Journalism took positions in journalistic occupations, Robert W. Haverfield, journalism placement director and associate professor of journalism, has announced.

The 1966 graduates were offered more jobs by a larger number of journalism organizations than ever before, he said. Forty per cent of the graduates accepted jobs in Missouri.

"The journalism placement office handled 260 more jobs during 1966 than were handled in 1965," said Prof. Haverfield, "and the total number of job openings received, listed, and processed increased from 718 last year to 978."

"The number of newspaper interviews increased noticeably this year. Interviewers came from San Diego to the west, from New York to the east, Miami to the south and Minneapolis to the north," Professor Haverfield said.

There is also a significant increase in the number of interviewing teams coming to the School of Journalism here, he reported.

Seventy-five visits by 69 interviewing teams were on the Columbia campus during the 1965-66 school year seeking qualified journalists.

The demand was so great we were able to fill only 14 1/2 per cent of the openings listed in our placement bureau, Haverfield reported.

Interviewers represented three major groups including: media (newspapers, magazines, radio and television groups and stations); advertising agencies; and industrial organizations.

"We are finding new faces in the industrial group each year, as more and more companies come to visit our school," Haverfield said.

In addition to the 177 students receiving bachelor of journalism degrees, thirty-five received Masters of Arts degrees and three were granted Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

Journalism graduates went to work with 40 newspapers in eighteen states with one graduate taking a position with a foreign newspaper in Hamilton, New Zealand.

"Graduates who have had combined training in more than one field, as well as those who can offer dual degrees, continue to be in better bargaining positions," Haverfield said.

"University graduates were well above average starting salaries for daily newspapers."

University graduates received an average of $118.05 per week as compared to usual starting figure of $110 per week, he said.

Summer internship programs for journalism students continue to increase. Sixty-six juniors were hired for summer internships -- almost double that of last year, Haverfield said.

"An analysis of jobs by media and by fields of journalism indicate general demands. The geographical listings by states shows a relative distribution of jobs and placements in the mid-western area. Our strongest media continues to be the daily," he reported.

Long Blasts Federal Agency

WASHINGTON - U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo) today warned "Our country will be better off when the federal trade commission decides to spend LESS effort eliminating the 'little men' over which it has no jurisdiction and MORE effort regulating the monopolistic giants over which it has clear jurisdiction."

The senator made this statement after the recent federal trade commission decision which will put the Kansas City community blood bank out of business.

"The commission's 3-2 decision will undoubtedly be appealed to the courts," Senator Long said. "Meanwhile, I plan to reintroduce my bill next year to exempt blood banks from the anti-trust laws. My bill is the only way I know to convince the commission that congress never intended to permit the FTC to interfere with community blood banks."

The senator's bill will also exempt bone banks and other banks storing human tissues and organs.

"Except for a few over-zealous bureaucrats at the federal trade commission, no one believes that blood banks fall within the jurisdiction of Federal regulations effecting interstate commerce," Senator Long said.

"I agree wholeheartedly with the dissent of Federal Trade Commissioner Philip Elman, who wrote 'work regulating the professional conduct of doctors is not our business."

Commissioner Elman said: "This case is typical, to the point of freakishness, of the kind of proceedings this Commission is equipped to bring in the restraint of trade area."

Senator Long pointed out "that the state of Missouri has ample authority to protect the public interest in matters of this kind. This is clearly not a matter for the Federal government."

Senator Long also criticized the commission for delaying final action in the Kansas City community blood bank case. "It is a national disgrace that this federal agency took from December of 1964 until October of 1966 -- 22 months -- to make its decision," the Senator said.

One Race in Stoddard County

BLOOMFIELD - Stoddard County will be electing a state representative and filling eight county offices in Tuesday's general election, but it isn't expected to generate much interest.

There is only one contest and that is in a small section of the county which is in legislative district 150. In that contest, Democrat Frank C. Ellis is opposed by Republican Clyde Whaley for state representative from that district.

In the 151st district which takes in the greatest part of the county, Democrat James E. Spain, Bloomfield attorney, is sure of being elected state representative. He has no opposition.

County offices to be filled and men seeking that office are as follows: presiding judge of county court, Clyde Henson; judge of county court 1st district, Joseph Ward; judge county court, 2nd district, Leffler Lee; judge of probate court and ex-officio judge of Magistrate court, Koss W. Blomeyer, circuit clerk, Bill Blue; county clerk, Marvin Capps; recorder of deeds, Mrs. Herb (Ethel) Crites, and prosecuting attorney, Paul McGhee.

Blomeyer is the only Republican in the group and all are assured of election since all are unopposed.

COMPLETE AND CONTINUOUS LOCAL, STATE AND NATIONAL ELECTION RETURNS BEGINNING AT 7 P.M. TUESDAY NOVEMBER 8TH.

Third Man Key Figure in Maryland Governor's Race

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The outcome of Maryland's gubernatorial election Nov. 8 may very well hinge on how strongly Hyman A. Pressman runs.

Pressman, Baltimore's colorful city comptroller, is a former Democrat running as an independent in the three-way race that has attracted national attention.

He could tip the victory to either Republican Spiro T. Agnew or Democrat George P. Mahoney. Or he could, possibly, score a major surprise and win.

The effect of Pressman's candidacy is as impossible to gauge as the open occupancy issue, which contributed to Mahoney's victory in the primary and which is expected to remain a factor in the general election.

Pressman, 52, a political maverick, was elected city comptroller three years ago on a Republican fusion ticket after having lost the nomination in the Democratic primary.

His chief strength appears to be in the Baltimore area, but he also is well-known in other sections for the taxpayer suits he has filed over the years against city and state officials and for his advocacy of a state-operated lottery.

While political observers speculate on which of the other candidates the red-haired Baltimore lawyer will hurt more, Fressman confidently predicts he will be the winner.

Mahoney, 64, a Baltimore County paving contractor, is making his fourth try for the governorship after six unsuccessful races for governor or U.S. senator. He was the surprise winner of a Democratic primary in which he stressed his opposition to open housing legislation with the slogan, "Your home is your castle — protect it."

Agnew, 47, a lawyer and head of Baltimore County's government, said at a recent political gathering that his campaign stressing such state problems as tax reform, education, rapid transit and water pollution "has not caught fire" but he remained hopeful it might do so.

Pressman thinks his own candidacy will rob Agnew of any widespread Democratic support, and that he will also take away voters from Mahoney in working-class areas where they have both run well.

Demand Higher Pay for Jounalists

COLUMBIA -- One-hundred and thirteen of the 177 students who were graduated in 1966 from the University of Missouri School of Journalism took positions in journalistic occupations, Robert W. Haverfield, journalism placement director and associate professor of journalism, has announced.

The 1966 graduates were offered more jobs by a larger number of journalism organizations than ever before, he said. Forty per cent of the graduates accepted jobs in Missouri.

"The journalism placement office handled 260 more jobs during 1966 than were handled in 1965," said Prof. Haverfield, "and the total number of job openings received, listed, and processed increased from 718 last year to 978."

"The number of newspaper interviews increased noticeably this year. Interviewers came from San Diego to the west, from New York to the east, Miami to the south and Minneapolis to the north," Professor Haverfield said.

There is also a significant increase in the number of interviewing teams coming to the School of Journalism here, he reported.

Seventy-five visits by 69 interviewing teams were on the Columbia campus during the 1965-66 school year seeking qualified journalists.

The demand was so great we were able to fill only 14 1/2 per cent of the openings listed in our placement bureau, Haverfield reported.

Interviewers represented three major groups including: media (newspapers, magazines, radio and television groups and stations); advertising agencies; and industrial organizations.

"We are finding new faces in the industrial group each year, as more and more companies come to visit our school," Haverfield said.

In addition to the 177 students receiving bachelor of journalism degrees, thirty-five received Masters of Arts degrees and three were granted Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

Journalism graduates went to work with 40 newspapers in eighteen states with one graduate taking a position with a foreign newspaper in Hamilton, New Zealand.

"Graduates who have had combined training in more than one field, as well as those who can offer dual degrees, continue to be in better bargaining positions," Haverfield said.

"University graduates were well above average starting salaries for daily newspapers."

University graduates received an average of $118.05 per week as compared to usual starting figure of $110 per week, he said.

Summer internship programs for journalism students continue to increase. Sixty-six juniors were hired for summer internships -- almost double that of last year, Haverfield said.

"An analysis of jobs by media and by fields of journalism indicate general demands. The geographical listings by states shows a relative distribution of jobs and placements in the mid-western area. Our strongest media continues to be the daily," he reported.

Magna Carta and the Rule of Law

In this way the seventeenth century interpretation of Magna Carta as the Englishman's charter of liberty, and of the medieval common law as enshrining the rights of free men and of property, passed into American legal thinking.

But just as important as legal education and legal literature in sustaining this dialogue across the Atlantic was the practice of hearing appeals from colonial courts in the Privy Council. In all, some 265 cases were carried to the Privy Council from America between 1680 and 1780, and giving its decision the council attempted to maintain the general principles of the common law of England. In using its power to nullify colonial legislation, it fostered the notion that a statute could be an ephemeral thing, an important point or origin of the modern American doctrine of judicial review of legislation.

Although the subordination of the American colonies to the English parliament and Privy Council helped foster a common law, it did not foster a common polity. In fact it was one of the most potent reasons for the eventual break between England and America. Once again the power of the executive conflicted with the rights and interests of the subject, and once again the subjects had an interest in bringing Magna Carta and the common law into play, this time to sustain their resistance to the government of George III. But now it was from the seventeenth century interpretations of the charter that the lawyers and propagandists drew their arguments; what medieval legislation and tradition had been to Coke, Coke's commentary on Magna Carta and that tradition were to the lawyers of the America revolution. Once again opposition to the executive was grounded upon law; once again statesmen went to history to find justification for their politics. And once again the issue was settled finally by force.

The close ties between England and America had made wide spread the assumptions that there was a "law of the land" to which governmental action was bound to conform; that the colonists were entitled to the protection of that law in their relations with the English government; that the colonists, though Americans, enjoyed the "fundamental rights of Englishmen," rights which were embodied most especially in Magna Carta; and that the government of George III was violating those rights.

But there was also current in revolutionary America an alternative body of political ideas, derived ultimately from John Locke, which grounded political obligation on natural right, and this theory, as well as the theory of the immemorial rights of Englishmen, was brought into play in the political conflicts that preceded the Declaration of Independence -- and is most clearly seen in the Declaration itself. It was widely assumed that there was a felicitous coincidence between natural law and the laws of England. As John Adams succinctly put it on the eve of revolution:

(T)he liberty, the unalienable, indefeasible rights of men, the honor and dignity of human nature, the grandeur and glory of the public, and the universal happiness of individuals, were never so skilfully and successfully consulted as in that most excellent monument of human art, the common law of England.

Artificial Nerve System Helps Scientists Study Human Brain

MURRAY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Scientists are making artificial nerve systems from electronics to try and discover how the brain thinks.

They are trying to make not only complete nervous systems but even individual nerve cells, or neuromines.

There are two principal aims of this work with artificial nerves:

To find out more about how nerve cells work to govern human movement, impulses and thoughts.

To learn how the brain works and how man can use this knowledge.

The method of this research — neural modeling —is viewed by scientists as a useful theoretical supplement to actual physiological measurement — the direct study of the actions of nervous systems.

Scientists don't expect this work to lead directly to the production of artificial parts of the human nervous system for replacement in the body. Rather, it is intended only to help further knowledge of how nature's biological computer — the brain — works.

The problem of determining how the human brain functions is enormous. There are at least 10 billion nerve cells in the brain and each is further complicated, says Leon D. Harmon.

Harmon, who has been working on the problem for nearly a decade, says 10 billion is a conservative estimate. An electronics engineers at Bell Telephone Laboratories, Harmon specializes in neural modeling - building electronic models of nerve cells to find out more about how assemblies of nerves work.

Harmon points out that while there are some similarities between human brains and computers, there are many important differences.

Nervous systems work far slower than computers. Nervous systems compensate by doing things with great logical depth. But while we still know little in detail about how brains function, Harmon says, it seems clear that their detailed operations differ widely from those of computers.

The computer memory system is one example.

When a computer works on a problem, it must be told specifically how to search its memory file for bits of information. Once these instructions are correctly given, the computer recalls the needed information infallibly from the record.

How often do people feel that an item is "on the tip of my tongue"—yet cannot recall it at the moment, only to have it pop into the mind when not looking for it, Harmon notes. Evidently the storage capacity of the brain is vast, but the method of recall cannot be—or has not been—reduced to a set of explicit instructions guaranteed to find a needed item, Harmon believes.

What about the future? Can there ever be a complete artificial brain doing all the things a human brain can do? Laugh? Cry? Respond to outside emotion? Accomplish original thought? See, hear and act as a human would?

Maybe never, Harmon believes, certainly not in his lifetime.

HONOLULU, Hawaii, -- Five University of Missouri county extension workers were honored Saturday night by the National Association of County Agriculture Agents.

The five are Chester D. Black of Palmyra, Gerald K. Freeze of Neosho, William O. Rader of Sedalia, Harry Vieth Jr. of Independence, and Lester O. Akers of Poplar Bluff.

The five received the national association's Distinguished Service Award during the organization's annual meeting held here Nov. 1-7.

Three of the honorees from Missouri, Black, Freeze, and Rader, are county extension directors. They respectively head county University of Missouri extension centers in Marion, Newton, and Pettis counties.

Akers is extension area youth agent for Butler and Stoddard counties. Vieth is Jackson county extension youth agent.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Most Nursing Graduates Stay in State to Work

COLUMBIA -- A survey at the University of Missouri school of nursing shows a majority of the graduates remain in the state to work, Dr. Ruby Potter, associate dean of the school of medicine in charge of the school of nursing, has announced.

"This is significant because demands for health and nursing care have increased rapidly in recent years," Dr. Potter said.

The survey shows 91 per cent of the nursing graduates between 1955 and 1960 stayed in Missouri, with 68 per cent of the nurses in non-metropolitan areas. Only nine per cent were working outside the state.

"It should be noted that marriage does not seem to deter nurses from their profession," Dr. Potter said. Eighty-seven per cent of those who were married have worked for a time on a full - time basis.

Three hundred ninety - two young women have graduated with bachelor of science degrees in nursing since the completion of the University of Missouri medical center 10 years ago when new facilities permitted the enlargement of the school.

Prior to that time, nursing students went to St. Louis hospitals for two years for clinical training.

Most of the clinical training has been provided in the teaching hospital of the medical center since 1956, reported Dr. Potter. Exceptions are in public health nursing, arranged through county health units within a 150-mile radius of Columbia, and psychiatric nursing.

Beginning next September, nursing students will receive psychiatric training in the Midwest Mental Health Center, now nearing completion adjacent to the Medical Center.

Education in nursing has been offered at the University of Missouri since 1901 when a diploma in nursing was offered through training at the University - operated Parker hospital.

The Undergraduate program now covers a four - year period with general academic courses concurrent with nursing studies. Clinical practice starts the second semester of the sophomore year. Study of the care of medical and surgical patients is followed by care of mothers and children, care of the mentally ill, and public health nursing.

Registered nurses who have graduated from state - approved diploma or associate degree programs in nursing are also permitted to the baccalaureate program and may complete their studies in less than four years if they successfully pass advanced standing examinations in selected courses.

A graduate program in nursing has been approved by the committee on educational policy of the graduate school and will be instituted at the University as soon as more space is acquired.

Rabies Cases Increase

COLUMBIA - The increased number of rabies cases in Missouri animals is causing concern, Dr. T. M. Curtin, University of Missouri extension veterinarian, said here today. Through the third week in October, 1966, there were 233 positive laboratory diagnoses for the year compared to 108 to the same date in 1965.

Slightly more than one half of the positive laboratory diagnoses have been in wild animals, mainly skunks and foxes. Most of the rest have been in dogs, cats and cattle. Not all cases are represented by those diagnosed in the laboratory. The unknown cases, and the exposures which result from them, represent the reservoir which keeps the disease alive, Curtin said.

Annual vaccination of all dogs, including those confined to homes, and the control of strays is the best approach to protection of pets and people, Curtin said. There is no recovery from, nor cure for rabies after the symptoms appear. All species of animals are susceptible, therefore even animals in confinement could be exposed by small rabid animals such as mice, rats or bats. Farm and rural pets must also be included in vaccination programs as they have the best opportunity of being exposed to wild rabid animals.

During an early stage of the disease, rabid animals roam and wander aimlessly attacking other animals and even inanimate objects, Curtin said. For this reason, one rabid animal may expose many other animals and persons. Salivation and paralysis of throat muscles with an accompanying change in voice are common signs of rabies in animals. Coma and death are the end result.

Whenever a person is bitten by an animal, he should notify immediately the health authorities or his local veterinarian so that the animal can be confined and observed, and then contact his physician so protection can be received. Rabies virus is spread through saliva which enters into the body through breaks in the skin such as bite wounds or other injuries which become contaminated by the saliva of infected animals.

Curtin emphasized that if it is necessary to destroy a suspected animal, extreme care should be taken not to mutilate the head. The laboratory diagnosis is made upon examination of the brain and mutilated heads increase the difficulty of establishing whether or not the animal was rabid.

The head should be removed intact, packed in ice and taken to one of the following three laboratories for a free examination: Missouri Central Laboratory, Jefferson City, district laboratory, Poplar Bluff; or district laboratory, Springfield. In addition, examinations are conducted for a fee at the School of Veterinary Medicine in Columbia. Because rabies is a highly fatal disease, persons with known or suspected exposures have sufficient reason to deliver the heads for examination.

"In order to avoid human deaths from rabies we must be constantly on guard", Curtin said. "If all dogs in Missouri are vaccinated annually and all strays controlled, the rate of animal infection and human exposure can be reduced to a minimum. This can be accomplished only if all pet owners assume the responsibility of controlling stray animals."

Artificial Nerve System Helps Scientists Study Human Brain

MURRAY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Scientists are making artificial nerve systems from electronics to try and discover how the brain thinks.

They are trying to make not only complete nervous systems but even individual nerve cells, or neuromines.

There are two principal aims of this work with artificial nerves:

To find out more about how nerve cells work to govern human movement, impulses and thoughts.

To learn how the brain works and how man can use this knowledge.

The method of this research — neural modeling — is viewed by scientists as a useful theoretical supplement to actual physiological measurement — the direct study of the actions of nervous systems.

Scientists don't expect this work to lead directly to the production of artificial parts of the human nervous system for replacement in the body. Rather, it is intended only to help further knowledge of how nature's biological computer — the brain — works.

The problem of determining how the human brain functions is enormous. There are at least 10 billion nerve cells in the brain and each is further complicated, says Leon D. Harmon.

Harmon, who has been working on the problem for nearly a decade, says 10 billion is a conservative estimate. An electronics engineers at Bell Telephone Laboratories, Harmon specializes in neural modeling - building electronic models of nerve cells to find out more about how assemblies of nerves work.

Harmon points out that while there are some similarities between human brains and computers, there are many important differences.

Nervous systems work far slower than computers. Nervous systems compensate by doing things with great logical depth. But while we still know little in detail about how brains function, Harmon says, it seems clear that their detailed operations differ widely from those of computers.

The computer memory system is one example.

When a computer works on a problem, it must be told specifically how to search its memory file for bits of information. Once these instructions are correctly given, the computer recalls the needed information infallibly from the record.

How often do people feel that an item is "on the tip of my tongue"—yet cannot recall it at the moment, only to have it pop into the mind when not looking for it, Harmon notes. Evidently the storage capacity of the brain is vast, but the method of recall cannot be—or has not been—reduced to a set of explicit instructions guaranteed to find a needed item, Harmon believes.

What about the future? Can there ever be a complete artificial brain doing all the things a human brain can do? Laugh? Cry? Respond to outside emotion? Accomplish original thought? See, hear and act as a human would?

Maybe never, Harmon believes, certainly not in his lifetime.

Five Extension Workers Win Service Awards

HONOLULU, Hawaii, -- Five University of Missouri county extension workers were honored Saturday night by the National Association of County Agriculture Agents.

The five are Chester D. Black of Palmyra, Gerald K. Freeze of Neosho, William O. Rader of Sedalia, Harry Vieth Jr. of Independence, and Lester O. Akers of Poplar Bluff.

The five received the national association's Distinguished Service Award during the organization's annual meeting held here Nov. 1-7.

Three of the honorees from Missouri, Black, Freeze, and Rader, are county extension directors. They respectively head county University of Missouri extension centers in Marion, Newton, and Pettis counties.

Akers is extension area youth agent for Butler and Stoddard counties. Vieth is Jackson county extension youth agent.

Selection of the Missouri extension workers for the distinguished service award was based on their accomplishments.

Akers was recognized for his outstanding youth work which includes expanding extension through his efforts with 4-H clubs, Scouts, church organizations and schools.

He was instrumental in developing Wapapello 4-H Camp which serves Missouri counties. He is also acclaimed for developing and training adult and junior 4-H leaders.

Akers has been extension area youth agent serving Butler and Stoddard counties since May 16, 1962. He began his extension career October 15, 1945, as associate county agent at large. He is a past New Madrid County associate agent. He served as state 4-H Club agent for about 15 1/2 years.

Akers was born at Gilman, Iowa. He was granted the Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture from the University of Tennessee.

Membership of the Methodist Church in the United States has been estimated at 10,322,000.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space retire alone to one of the voting booths so provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner:

(1) Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket," he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote. (2) If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such cancelled name the name of the person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle. (3) Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name, automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark unless the voter indicates another candidate, to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name. All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns if two or more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner nor to erase any printed name "except as provided above in this section," figure, word or letter therefrom, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor enclose in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter deface or tear a ballot, or wrongly mark the name or make an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot on returning to the ballot clerk the one so defaced or wrongly marked. A ballot placed in the ballot box without any marks shall not be counted. Ballots shall be counted only for the person for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter shall place a mark against two or more names for the same office, and only one candidate is to be chosen for the office none of the candidates shall be deemed to have been voted for and the ballots shall not be counted for either such candidate. Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then hand the ballot to the judge of election selected to take ballots, who shall number the ballot and deposit it in the ballot box. The voter shall quit and leave said enclosed place as soon as possible.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago

Louis Baker happened to a very painful accident one day this week when a workman accidently flung some lime mortar off his trowel and a little went into one of his eyes. About a teaspoonful was taken out of the eye, and two or three scars will result from the burns, but the sight is uninjured.

Never in the history of Scott County has such a vote been cast as was counted on Tuesday. Polls opened at 6 o'clock with many waiting at every precinct to register their political preference. The official total vote was 5,391, which speaks well for the interest taken by voters. The entire Democratic ticket from president to constable was elected.

Vincent Heisserer was born in Alsace Lorraine January 21, 1837 and died at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau Tuesday afternoon. Recently Mr. Heisserer fell and broke his hip and had been confined to his bed since that time. At the time of his death he was almost 90 years of age.

Judge W. S. Smith, Judge J. L. Tanner, Porter Kendall, Harry Smith and Handy Smith went down in the river bottoms over the weekend on a hunting and nutting trip. They found the game scarce, but brought in a good supply of hickory nuts.

W. E. Hollingsworth, "Cousin Ed" to his many friends, was operated upon at St. Mary's Infirmary at Cairo Wednesday afternoon, following an acute attack of appenditicis the preceeding night.

During the past month, the Malone Theatre has been undergoing redecoration and improvements. One noticeably improvement adding materially to the comfort of the women patrons is a fine new rest room under the left balcony. A new furnace has also been installed and a new screen, 12 x 15 replaces the old one and presents the films in a much clearer and evener manner.

Malone Theatre, today, "Here Comes Carter!" with Ross Alexander and Glenda Farrell.

An improved team continued its winning streak Friday night with a 46 to 0 victory over the Dexter Bearcats. Scores were made by G. B. Greer, Moore Greer, Aldridge, Woods and Wyatt. Sikeston scored three times in the first quarter, twice in the third quarter, and once each in the other two and place kicked four extra points.

William Kanning was found dead in his house on the Jim Baker farm early Friday morning. Physicians said he had died two hours before of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 65 years old and had been employed by the Bakers for 25 years.

Barney Forrester has purchased Malone's drug store. The sale will not be completed until sometime today after a McKesson products representative has finished taking an inventory of the store's stock and discarding shopworn and out - of - date merchandise. The place will be called Forrester's Drug Store.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who wants to act like a decent person. I will tell you what happened and I hope you will tell me if I am wrong or right.

My boy friend Peter (fake name) is 18. He works part-time in a drug store to earn spending money. Peter is far from rich, you understand, but he isn't poor either. Saturday night we had a date to go to a drive-in movie. I got dressed up nice because I thought maybe he'd take me to a place to dance later. After we got in the car he said, "Look, I'm light on loot this week. Would you mind lying on the floor of the car and let me put a blanket over you so we can save the price of your ticket?"

I was insulted that he would suggest such a thing and I said so. He looked very disappointed and called me a poor sport and said I had let him down when he needed me.

Now I feel guilty, although part of me says that HE is the one who ought to feel guilty. What do you think? -- INSULTED INEZ

Dear Inez: No girl should he be asked to be a party to such a cheap trick. And Peter has his nerve suggesting that YOU let him down.

When a girl accepts a date to a drive - in she has every reason to expect to go through the gate, upright in the seat. Floor indeed!

Dear Ann Landers: By this time everyone knows that cigarets endanger the health. My problem is that someone I love very much is a heavy smoker even though he has a respiratory problem and the doctor told him two years ago to give up cigarets. I have begged him to stop -- for me, if not for himself. I have sent him booklets, magazine articles and newspaper clippings. I have accomplished nothing, but HE has become a first - class liar.

Last night he left me twice during the movie to "get a breath of fresh air." I know he went out to smoke.

He swears he has limited himself to eight cigarets a day but I'm sure he is still burning up at least a pack.

How can I get through to him that he is shortening his life? I'm so worried that I've had to go on tranquilizers. Can you help? -- A WRECK

Dear Wreck: It's a lost cause, Girl. Accept the realities of the situation before you ruin YOUR health.

Nicotine addicts will give up the habit only if they like themselves well enough to be good to themselves. In this sense the problem is the same as alcoholism.

Dear Ann Landers: It sure is easy for you to sit out there in Chicago and deal advice off your arm like a sleight-of-hand artist in a carnival show.

You told a man who said he was very fond of wearing sport shirts that it wouldn't kill him to put on a white shirt and tie for a special party if his wife asked him to.

How do YOU know whether or not it would kill him? I happen to be a man and it kills ME. Some men just hate to put on a white shirt and a tie. So why don't you stick to problems you've had some experience with? -- HAD ENOUGH OF YOU

Dear Had: If I had experienced even a small percentage of the problems I deal with every day I would be in no shape to write this column. You don't have to be a cow to know what milk is, Buster.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped self - addressed envelope.

The Prayer
For Today
From the Upper Room

Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. (Romans 8:37)

PRAYER: Repeat Thy life in me, O Lord, that I may not only endure trials and temptations but use them for Thy glory. May they be witnesses of Thy spirit in me. For Thy sake. Amen.

Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Editor,

I was shocked and surprised to see a picture such as the one published in Saturday's Daily Standard. I am referring to the picture on page 10 in which the burned and charred body of Odies Ray Stone was featured. I have never seen such disrespect displayed in any paper before. Surely you'll agree that sensationalism of this type is indeed, news, but think of the grief of the family and their thoughts of seeing such a picture of a loved one.

Coverage of tragedies such as this has become almost commercialized. Hardly a day comes and goes but some magazine or newspaper has the somewhat dubious task of reporting deaths or accidents of violent nature. Still most refrain from taking advantage of the situation in order to gain attention. A certain amount of photographs, I feel, are indeed necessary in order to present the full story and to give the reader a better understanding of the disaster.

And what of the accident? The cold fact is, it DID happen, whether or not it could have been prevented. I say it should be mentioned and forgotten by those who can do so. It's my feeling your coverage of the incident did not help the matter.

In short, a disrespect to the modern art of journalism.

Very Truly Yours,
Ken White

As we draw close to Election Day we should not put our head in the sand and expect the other guy (or gal) to put the best people in office. If you wonder just how important your vote is just remember that today is the Tenth Anniversary of that tragic day when the Russian tanks smashed the Hungarian revolution and darkened the one bright light behind the "Iron Curtain" -- there is all too much truth in these lines:

YOUR PRECIOUS VOTE

Behind the ragged collar
of his tattered coat, he wears
an expression of defeat.
His eyes are deep-lined.
They have seen much.
The day's work is over. He trudges home along the bleak
street.
His leaders are called commissars, but the high offices which dominate the land of his nameless forefathers bear no Russian names on their doors.
In Poland, the names are Polish. In Czechoslovakia, they are Czech. In Hungary, Hungarian. It is the same in East Germany and Cuba.
No foreign army conquered his land. There was no war, upheaval, or revolution. Just a long period of change in the scheme of things, and, of course, apathy and ignorance.
And a few quiet executions.
He will believe what he is told to believe, live where he is told to live, work where he is told to work. It was that way yesterday and today. It will be that way tomorrow and many, more more tomorrows.
He will die eventually, but he will not vote. They will not let him. . .

For the past year we have reminded you that the British and others of our "Allies" continue to trade with North Vietnam and Cuba. Pressure exerted by some of you has caused a drastic cut - back in the trade with Hanoi but in Cuba, which could be the next "hot-spot", it persists and increases. When you cast your vote think about this and vote for those who support our boys in uniform and champion victory over communism and its "fellow - travelers".

TWO DAUGHTERS of the late Gov. Henry S. Caulfield present their father's private and official papers to the western historical manuscripts collection at the University of Missouri, Columbia. From left are Mrs. Clarence Barksdale and Mrs. Juston Cordonnier, both of St. Louis; Chancellor John W. Schwada of the University of Missouri, Columbia; and Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director of the collection and director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri.

Canlfield Papers Presented

COLUMBIA -- Private and official papers of the late Henry S. Caulfield, Missouri governor from 1929 to 1933, have been presented to the western historical manuscripts collection at the University of Missouri.

Two of Governor Caulfield's daughters, Mrs. Justin Cordonnier, and Mrs. Clarence Barksdale, both of St. Louis, presented the papers to Chancellor John W. Schwada of the University and Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director of the collection and director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri.

One of the houses in the university dormitory system is named for Governor Caulfield. A large portrait picture included in Governor Caulfield's papers will hang in the dormitory.

Dr. Brownlee said that the gift will increase to 32 the collection's holdings of papers of Missouri's 46 former governors. Some papers of early governors were lost in two fires that destroyed the capitol buildings at Jefferson City, but the collection here includes at least one letter and signature of all former governors of the states.

The collection, vast holdings of 7 million items, also includes papers of eight senators, 13 congressmen, five agriculture leaders and six other prominent Missourians.

"The Western Manuscripts Collection of the University has grown to the point that it has become mandatory for any researcher or historian making a study of the state or of the mid - west to use our materials if he is to research thoroughly his subject," Dr. Brownlee said.

"With the gift of such collections as the Caulfield papers the collection becomes ever more valuable and useful."

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, ARK. - Many of the 37 aircraft participating in the 1966 Strategic Air Command Combat Competition at Fairchild AFB, Wash., came sporting many and unusual eye-catching names.

One, called "Aroo Stocrat", has caused considerable comment among personnel from other wings competing in the competition. Some thought that aristocrat had been misspelled. A closer look into the naming of the aircraft from the 42nd Bomb Wing, Loring AFB, Me., revealed that it was named after Aroostoook County in Maine.

Loring is located near Limestone, Me., in Aroostook County, the largest county in the state. A civilian representative from Aroostook County, on hand for the competition, said that the county is noted for the world's best potatoes and largest bombers.

Since the 97th Bomb Wing, Blytheville AFB, Ark., is also in this competion, it has a fair reason to brag about Mississippi County, Ark. This county, in which Blytheville is located, is famous for soy beans and is one of the largest cotton producing counties in the U.S.

Blytheville itself is the home of the "National Cotton Pickin' Contest. Perhaps one year a plane from Blytheville AFB can go to the competition bearing the name, "The Cotton Picker."

The county has already gained international recognition from the cotton corsages, miniature cotton bales and the cotton center piece displayed in the 97th Bomb Wing's booth at Fairchild AFB, Wash. These items, donated by the Blytheville Junior Chamber of Commerce, have drawn much praise and created much interest for this section of the country.

The county gained international recognition when members of the Royal Air Force were presented with the miniature cotton bales by the 97th Bomb Wing.

Mr. Scott-Reed, public relations director for the RAF Bomber Command, had much praise for the people of Mississippi County and the city of Blytheville.

Daily reports have indicated that the cotton novelty items are quite popular among the competitors.

Potatoes and bombers are not the only pride items at Fairchild. The residents of Blytheville and surrounding areas can pat themselves on the back for keeping the 97th from being just another entry in the 1966 "World Series of Bombing."

From the Sikeston Herald of Thursday, November 11, 1943.

Frank H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, is now stationed at Camp Beale, Calif., with the 170th Engineer Combat Battalion.

Clay V. Wood, who had been here on furlough visiting his mother, Mrs. Ida Wood, left Tuesday for his post at Camp Roberts, Calif.

Canto Thrower, who is stationed at Springfield, Mo. with the Signal Corps, spent last week-end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thrower.

Charles Petifurd, son of Mrs. Carrie Mae Petifurd, has been transferred from the armed forces in Alexandria, La. to Delhart, Texas. Mrs. Petifurd recently received a letter from another son, Sgt. James Smart, who is with the army in North Africa, where he has been serving the past year.

J. B. Wood, who was discharged from the Coast Guard several months ago, has enlisted in the Navy and is now stationed at San Diego, Calif.

Light Turnout Expected in General Elcetion

CHARLESTON -- Tuesday will be General Election day, but a huge, record number of votes is not expected in Mississippi county. There are no hotly contested local races to stimulate the voters, and that spells no interest, and consequently a light turnout.

As a matter of fact, two of the special ballots which will be handed each voter will probably draw more enthusiasm than will the large ballots on which are listed Democratic and Republican candidates for state and district offices.

In the state contest Haskell Holman, candidate for state auditor, is opposed by Republican candidate William T. Zimmerman.

In the 10th District Congressional race, incumbent Paul C. Jones is expected to bury his Republican opponent Willie Bruckerhoff in an avalanche of votes.

There is one race with local flavor, and that is the one involving David Rolwing, incumbent state representative, who has been challenged by Rena Carter, East Prairie. The area involved covers all of Mississippi County, and a small adjacent portion of New Madrid county now termed the 158th District.

All other members of the official family of Mississippi county office holders are running unopposed. They include the entire County Court, W. H. Winchester Jr., presiding judge, and two associate judges, Floyd Hall from the second district, and Gilbert Bryant from the first district; T. J. Brown Jr., candidate for re-election to the office of Probate Judge and ex-officio magistrate; Ellis W. Howlett for circuit clerk and ex-officio recorder of deeds; Arthur L. Goodin, clerk of the county court; Roderic R. Ashby for prosecuting attorney, C. E. Wyatt for collector of revenue and Deema Atteberry for county treasurer.

Only one proposed Constitutional Amendment is to be voted on, and since it applies only to St. Louis County and St. Louis City, it will generate little if any local interest or enthusiasm. If adopted, this amendment to the Missouri Constitution sets out ways and means for the County and City to set up a form of local government and independent of the Legislature, and it provides the method of selecting a board of freeholders.

Five persons are running for two places on the board of Trustees of the mississippi County Health Department. The candidates are: Vera Simpson, W. Clifton Banta, Mary J. Miller, Robert L. Frazier, M.D., and Travis "Corkey" Shelby.

The judicial ballot insofar as most voters are concerned is largely a matter of formality. Voters must decide whether the three Supreme Court judges should be retained in office. All three named on the ballot are presently incumbents, and there is little or no reason to believe that any one of the three will be scratched. The candidates are: Judge Robert T. Donnelly, Judge James A. Finch Jr., and Judge Fred L. Haney.

The last proposition to be voted on next Tuesday could possibly generate the greatest amount of steam. The issue to be resolved is whether or not to issue $30,000 in short term bonds for renovating, remodeling and modernizing the 60-year-old Mississippi County Courthouse.

Election judges and polling places for the election Tuesday are as follows:

Charleston 1-A -- County court room, courthouse, Mrs. Myrtle Nunnelee, Mrs. Lora Barnbrook, Mrs. Jane Holt, Mrs. Gene Ben Lankheit, Mrs. Opal Ashley, Mrs. Eugenia Bush.

Family Regains House Where JFK Born

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) - The Kennedy family has taken title to the nine-room wood frame house at 83 Beals St. where John F. Kennedy was born.

Merrill I. Hassenfeld, a Boston lawyer, said the title at the registry of deeds in Dedham is in the name of Joseph F. Gargan, a cousin of the president.

Hassenfeld said he represents a group which acquired the house earlier this year as a memorial. They recently assigned their purchase and sale agreement to the Kennedy family, he said, because "we didn't want it to fall into the wrong hands."

Kennedy was born in an upstairs bedroom of the house on May 29, 1917.

The super airlines of the future won't be much good for serving the smaller cities, but even the most remote village will be able to enjoy the sonic booms.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who wants to act like a decent person. I will tell you what happened and I hope you will tell me if I am wrong or right.

My boy friend Peter (fake name) is 18. He works part-time in a drug store to earn spending money. Peter is far from rich, you understand, but he isn't poor either. Saturday night we had a date to go to a drive-in movie. I got dressed up nice because I thought maybe he'd take me to a place to dance later. After we got in the car he said, "Look, I'm light on loot this week. Would you mind lying on the floor of the car and let me put a blanket over you so we can save the price of your ticket?"

I was insulted that he would suggest such a thing and I said so. He looked very disappointed and called me a poor sport and said I had let him down when he needed me.

Now I feel guilty, although part of me says that HE is the one who ought to feel guilty. What do you think? -- INSULTED INEZ

Dear Inez: No girl should he be asked to be a party to such a cheap trick. And Peter has his nerve suggesting that YOU let him down.

When a girl accepts a date to a drive - in she has every reason to expect to go through the gate, upright in the seat. Floor indeed!

Dear Ann Landers: By this time everyone knows that cigarets endanger the health. My problem is that someone I love very much is a heavy smoker even though he has a respiratory problem and the doctor told him two years ago to give up cigarets. I have begged him to stop -- for me, if not for himself. I have sent him booklets, magazine articles and newspaper clippings. I have accomplished nothing, but HE has become a first - class liar.

Last night he left me twice during the movie to "get a breath of fresh air." I know he went out to smoke.

He swears he has limited himself to eight cigarets a day but I'm sure he is still burning up at least a pack.

How can I get through to him that he is shortening his life? I'm so worried that I've had to go on tranquilizers. Can you help? -- A WRECK

Dear Wreck: It's a lost cause, Girl. Accept the realities of the situation before you ruin YOUR health.

Nicotine addicts will give up the habit only if they like themselves well enough to be good to themselves. In this sense the problem is the same as alcoholism.

Dear Ann Landers: It sure is easy for you to sit out there in Chicago and deal advice off your arm like a sleight-of-hand artist in a carnival show.

You told a man who said he was very fond of wearing sport shirts that it wouldn't kill him to put on a white shirt and tie for a special party if his wife asked him to.

How do YOU know whether or not it would kill him? I happen to be a man and it kills ME. Some men just hate to put on a white shirt and a tie. So why don't you stick to problems you've had some experience with? -- HAD ENOUGH OF YOU

Dear Had: If I had experienced even a small percentage of the problems I deal with every day I would be in no shape to write this column. You don't have to be a cow to know what milk is, Buster.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped self - addressed envelope.

The Prayer
For Today
From the Upper Room

Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. (Romans 8:37)

PRAYER: Repeat Thy life in me, O Lord, that I may not only endure trials and temptations but use them for Thy glory. May they be witnesses of Thy spirit in me. For Thy sake. Amen.

Dear Editor,

I was shocked and surprised to see a picture such as the one published in Saturday's Daily Standard. I am referring to the picture on page 10 in which the burned and charred body of Odies Ray Stone was featured. I have never seen such disrespect displayed in any paper before. Surely you'll agree that sensationalism of this type is indeed, news, but think of the grief of the family and their thoughts of seeing such a picture of a loved one.

Coverage of tragedies such as this has become almost commercialized. Hardly a day comes and goes but some magazine or newspaper has the somewhat dubious task of reporting deaths or accidents of violent nature. Still most refrain from taking advantage of the situation in order to gain attention. A certain amount of photographs, I feel, are indeed necessary in order to present the full story and to give the reader a better understanding of the disaster.

And what of the accident? The cold fact is, it DID happen, whether or not it could have been prevented. I say it should be mentioned and forgotten by those who can do so. It's my feeling your coverage of the incident did not help the matter.

In short, a disrespect to the modern art of journalism.

Very Truly Yours,
Ken White

To The Editor:
November 4, 1966

As we draw close to Election Day we should not put our head in the sand and expect the other guy (or gal) to put the best people in office. If you wonder just how important your vote is just remember that today is the Tenth Anniversary of that tragic day when the Russian tanks smashed the Hungarian revolution and darkened the one bright light behind the "Iron Curtain" -- there is all too much truth in these lines:

YOUR PRECIOUS VOTE

of his tattered coat, he wears
an expression of defeat.
His eyes are deep-lined.
They have seen much.
The day's work is over. He trudges home along the bleak
street.
His leaders are called commissars, but the high offices which dominate the land of his nameless forefathers bear no Russian names on their doors.
In Poland, the names are Polish. In Czechoslovakia, they are Czech. In Hungary, Hungarian. It is the same in East Germany and Cuba.
No foreign army conquered his land. There was no war, upheaval, or revolution. Just a long period of change in the scheme of things, and, of course, apathy and ignorance.
And a few quiet executions.
He will believe what he is told to believe, live where he is told to live, work where he is told to work. It was that way yesterday and today. It will be that way tomorrow and many, more more tomorrows.
He will die eventually, but he will not vote. They will not let him. . .

For the past year we have reminded you that the British and others of our "Allies" continue to trade with North Vietnam and Cuba. Pressure exerted by some of you has caused a drastic cut - back in the trade with Hanoi but in Cuba, which could be the next "hot-spot", it persists and increases. When you cast your vote think about this and vote for those who support our boys in uniform and champion victory over communism and its "fellow - travelers".

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AIR FORCE BASE, ARK. - Many of the 37 aircraft participating in the 1966 Strategic Air Command Combat Competition at Fairchild AFB, Wash., came sporting many and unusual eye-catching names.

One, called "Aroo Stocrat", has caused considerable comment among personnel from other wings competing in the competition. Some thought that aristocrat had been misspelled. A closer look into the naming of the aircraft from the 42nd Bomb Wing, Loring AFB, Me., revealed that it was named after Aroostoook County in Maine.

Loring is located near Limestone, Me., in Aroostook County, the largest county in the state. A civilian representative from Aroostook County, on hand for the competition, said that the county is noted for the world's best potatoes and largest bombers.

Since the 97th Bomb Wing, Blytheville AFB, Ark., is also in this competion, it has a fair reason to brag about Mississippi County, Ark. This county, in which Blytheville is located, is famous for soy beans and is one of the largest cotton producing counties in the U.S.

Blytheville itself is the home of the "National Cotton Pickin' Contest. Perhaps one year a plane from Blytheville AFB can go to the competition bearing the name, "The Cotton Picker."

The county has already gained international recognition from the cotton corsages, miniature cotton bales and the cotton center piece displayed in the 97th Bomb Wing's booth at Fairchild AFB, Wash. These items, donated by the Blytheville Junior Chamber of Commerce, have drawn much praise and created much interest for this section of the country.

The county gained international recognition when members of the Royal Air Force were presented with the miniature cotton bales by the 97th Bomb Wing.

Mr. Scott-Reed, public relations director for the RAF Bomber Command, had much praise for the people of Mississippi County and the city of Blytheville.

Daily reports have indicated that the cotton novelty items are quite popular among the competitors.

Potatoes and bombers are not the only pride items at Fairchild. The residents of Blytheville and surrounding areas can pat themselves on the back for keeping the 97th from being just another entry in the 1966 "World Series of Bombing."

TWO DAUGHTERS of the late Gov. Henry S. Caulfield present their father's private and official papers to the western historical manuscripts collection at the University of Missouri, Columbia. From left are Mrs. Clarence Barksdale and Mrs. Juston Cordonnier, both of St. Louis; Chancellor John W. Schwada of the University of Missouri, Columbia; and Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director of the collection and director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri.

Canlfield Papers Presented

COLUMBIA -- Private and official papers of the late Henry S. Caulfield, Missouri governor from 1929 to 1933, have been presented to the western historical manuscripts collection at the University of Missouri.

Two of Governor Caulfield's daughters, Mrs. Justin Cordonnier, and Mrs. Clarence Barksdale, both of St. Louis, presented the papers to Chancellor John W. Schwada of the University and Dr. Richard S. Brownlee, director of the collection and director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri.

One of the houses in the university dormitory system is named for Governor Caulfield. A large portrait picture included in Governor Caulfield's papers will hang in the dormitory.

Dr. Brownlee said that the gift will increase to 32 the collection's holdings of papers of Missouri's 46 former governors. Some papers of early governors were lost in two fires that destroyed the capitol buildings at Jefferson City, but the collection here includes at least one letter and signature of all former governors of the states.

The collection, vast holdings of 7 million items, also includes papers of eight senators, 13 congressmen, five agriculture leaders and six other prominent Missourians.

"The Western Manuscripts Collection of the University has grown to the point that it has become mandatory for any researcher or historian making a study of the state or of the mid - west to use our materials if he is to research thoroughly his subject," Dr. Brownlee said.

"With the gift of such collections as the Caulfield papers the collection becomes ever more valuable and useful."

Light Turnout Expected in General Elcetion

CHARLESTON -- Tuesday will be General Election day, but a huge, record number of votes is not expected in Mississippi county. There are no hotly contested local races to stimulate the voters, and that spells no interest, and consequently a light turnout.

As a matter of fact, two of the special ballots which will be handed each voter will probably draw more enthusiasm than will the large ballots on which are listed Democratic and Republican candidates for state and district offices.

In the state contest Haskell Holman, candidate for state auditor, is opposed by Republican candidate William T. Zimmerman.

In the 10th District Congressional race, incumbent Paul C. Jones is expected to bury his Republican opponent Willie Bruckerhoff in an avalanche of votes.

There is one race with local flavor, and that is the one involving David Rolwing, incumbent state representative, who has been challenged by Rena Carter, East Prairie. The area involved covers all of Mississippi County, and a small adjacent portion of New Madrid county now termed the 158th District.

All other members of the official family of Mississippi county office holders are running unopposed. They include the entire County Court, W. H. Winchester Jr., presiding judge, and two associate judges, Floyd Hall from the second district, and Gilbert Bryant from the first district; T. J. Brown Jr., candidate for re-election to the office of Probate Judge and ex-officio magistrate; Ellis W. Howlett for circuit clerk and ex-officio recorder of deeds; Arthur L. Goodin, clerk of the county court; Roderic R. Ashby for prosecuting attorney, C. E. Wyatt for collector of revenue and Deema Atteberry for county treasurer.

Only one proposed Constitutional Amendment is to be voted on, and since it applies only to St. Louis County and St. Louis City, it will generate little if any local interest or enthusiasm. If adopted, this amendment to the Missouri Constitution sets out ways and means for the County and City to set up a form of local government and independent of the Legislature, and it provides the method of selecting a board of freeholders.

Five persons are running for two places on the board of Trustees of the mississippi County Health Department. The candidates are: Vera Simpson, W. Clifton Banta, Mary J. Miller, Robert L. Frazier, M.D., and Travis "Corkey" Shelby.

The judicial ballot insofar as most voters are concerned is largely a matter of formality. Voters must decide whether the three Supreme Court judges should be retained in office. All three named on the ballot are presently incumbents, and there is little or no reason to believe that any one of the three will be scratched. The candidates are: Judge Robert T. Donnelly, Judge James A. Finch Jr., and Judge Fred L. Haney.

The last proposition to be voted on next Tuesday could possibly generate the greatest amount of steam. The issue to be resolved is whether or not to issue $30,000 in short term bonds for renovating, remodeling and modernizing the 60-year-old Mississippi County Courthouse.

Election judges and polling places for the election Tuesday are as follows:

Charleston 1-A -- County court room, courthouse, Mrs. Myrtle Nunnelee, Mrs. Lora Barnbrook, Mrs. Jane Holt, Mrs. Gene Ben Lankheit, Mrs. Opal Ashley, Mrs. Eugenia Bush.

Family Regains House Where JFK Born

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) - The Kennedy family has taken title to the nine-room wood frame house at 83 Beals St. where John F. Kennedy was born.

Merrill I. Hassenfeld, a Boston lawyer, said the title at the registry of deeds in Dedham is in the name of Joseph F. Gargan, a cousin of the president.

Hassenfeld said he represents a group which acquired the house earlier this year as a memorial. They recently assigned their purchase and sale agreement to the Kennedy family, he said, because "we didn't want it to fall into the wrong hands."

Kennedy was born in an upstairs bedroom of the house on May 29, 1917.

The super airlines of the future won't be much good for serving the smaller cities, but even the most remote village will be able to enjoy the sonic booms.

Heart Research Learning From Space Devices

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - An electronic aid for astronauts is beginning to help answer a worrisome question for heart patients on earth - when can they safely return to what kind of jobs?

One device developed for astronauts sends their electrocardiograms - ECG-recordings of electrical activity of the heart, back to earth.

Now similar radio ECGs are helping measure the capability of once-damaged hearts during exercise or as the owners work at different jbs.

If a patient returns to a strenuous job too soon, the heart may be damaged anew. But if he takes it too easy, he may become a heart cripple unnecessarily.

Ordinary ECGs are one means of judging the heart's health, but they may give an inadequate assessment if taken when a man is resting or after exercise. Radio ECGs, taken during activity, offer the promise of more complete assessments. New research with them was described by Israeli and Soviet scientists to the fifth World Congress of Cardiology.

In 1917, Communist rule over Russia began when Lenin and Trotsky overthrew the government of Alexander Kerensky.

In 1936, the loyalist government in Spain moved from Madrid to Valencia.

In 1941, the Senate voted to amend the Neutrality Act to permit the arming of merchant vessels.

In 1942, the Allied invasion of North Africa during World War II began.

Ten years ago — The United Nations received Egyptian, Israeli, British and French acceptance of a U.N. cease-fire appeal and major fighting in the Middle East ended.

Five years ago — At least three people were killed in the collision of Nationalist Chinese freighter and a Norwegian tanker in the Houston, Tex. ship canal.

One year ago — During a parade marking the anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, the Soviet Union showed off a rocket they claimed could launch a nuclear attack from space.

Heart Research Learning From Space Devices

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - An electronic aid for astronauts is beginning to help answer a worrisome question for heart patients on earth - when can they safely return to what kind of jobs?

One device developed for astronauts sends their electrocardiograms - ECG-recordings of electrical activity of the heart, back to earth.

Now similar radio ECGs are helping measure the capability of once-damaged hearts during exercise or as the owners work at different jbs.

If a patient returns to a strenuous job too soon, the heart may be damaged anew. But if he takes it too easy, he may become a heart cripple unnecessarily.

Ordinary ECGs are one means of judging the heart's health, but they may give an inadequate assessment if taken when a man is resting or after exercise. Radio ECGs, taken during activity, offer the promise of more complete assessments. New research with them was described by Israeli and Soviet scientists to the fifth World Congress of Cardiology.

JOHNSON

throw the election into the Georgia Legislature.

Maryland: It's a close one between Republican Spiro T. Agnew and Democrat George P. Mahoney. A foe of open housing, Mahoney scored an upset victory in his primary election campaign, using the slogan, "Your home is your castle—protect it!"

Michigan: Gov. George Romney is heavily favored to win another two - year term over his Democratic opponent, Zolton A. Ferency. Romney supporters are hoping his margin will be great enough to help other GOP candidates in Michigan and further enhance the governor's prospects as a contender for the 1968 Republican nomination for president.

SENATE

Illinois: Republican Charles H. Percy is considered ahead of veteran Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas. Many observers predict a victory for Percy would place him in the ranks of contenders for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

Massachusetts: The race between former Democratic Gov. Endicott Peabody and Republican Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke is very close. If elected, Brooke would be the first Negro in the Senate since Reconstruction days.

Oregon: The Senate race between Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield and Democratic Rep. Robert B. Duncan is another close one. Hatfield says the war in Viet Nam is no longer an issue, Duncan says it is.

Ohio: Former Rep. Robert Taft Jr. holds a slim lead in Cincinnati's 1st District over freshman Democratic Rep. John J. Gilligan. Reapportionment has helped Taft.

Iowa: In one of the major surprises of the 1964 election, Iowa switched its House lineup from six Republicans and one Democrat to six Democrats and one Republican. Veteran Democrat Neal Smith should win easily, Republican H. R. Gross is favored for re-election. Freshman Democrats John Schmidhauser and John Culver appear to have winning edges, Republican William J. Scherle appears a likely winner over Democratic Rep. John R. Hansen. Other House contests are toss-ups.

Nixon, on the ABC radio-television program, Issues and Answers, and Johnson, at his news conference, were asked about their predictions on the voting.

Nixon predicted a GOP net gain of 40 in the House, a net of three in the Senate, six governorships and 700 state legislators.

Johnson shied away from specific figures, but quoted the prediction given him by Postmaster Gen. Lawrence O'Brien. "He anticipates there will be no substantial change in the Senate," the president said. "I think the Democrats will have a good, healthy, substantial majority in the House of Representatives."

While under doctors orders to be resting up for surgery, the President was busy doing his best to see that the Democrats wound up with such a margin. Sunday's news conference was his fourth in four days — counting his meeting with newsmen last Thursday when he announced he would undergo surgery before Thanksgiving.

Sunday, Johnson reported at his news conference that his Council of Economic Advisers had assured him inflationary pressures have eased. The report said "recent developments in the economy are a cause for encouragement but not for complacency. The council also said food prices — a touchy point with housewives — are declining.

This news, along with his announcement that he was nominating Undersecretary of Commerce Alan S. Boyd to head the new Cabinet-level Department of Transportation, began hitting the news wires just about the time Nixon was to appear on television.

In his second television appearance of the afternoon, Nixon spoke for the GOP on a half hour provided by the NBC network for the party to present its views. A film titled "What Goes on Here?" originally was scheduled. But it drew heavy criticism and was disowned by several GOP leaders. Nixon, in his role of answering Johnson's criticism, was its replacement.

bert, 17, 225 Young, were each charged Sunday by police with improper registration.

Kenneth D. Paylor, 18, route four, was charged by police with careless and imprudent driving for taking off at a high rate of speed on East Malone, police said.

Leon Daniel, 36, of Matthews was arrested Saturday on Alabama St. and charged with discharging firearms in the city limits.

Nursing Shortage Forecast

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — Missouri hospitals will be crippled by a critical lack of registered nurses in the near future unless administrators and trustees act quickly, a national nursing authority said today.

Speaking at the opening session of the annual convention of the Missouri Hospital Association, Mrs. Margaret G. Ellsworth, Chicago, a nurse consultant, noted that nurses in some rural hospitals are being paid $275 a month, half what they can earn in other parts of the nation.

In the past 15 years, she said, Missouri has become known as a "feeder state," with more of the nurses training in Missouri seeking jobs in other areas than stay in the state.

"This drain - off will son reach critical proportions unless hospital officials take steps to meet competition," she said.

She said the American Nurses Association has set a goal of $6,500 in minimum annual salaries for nurses across the nation by the end of 1966.

John B. Warner Jr., a St. Louis hospital consultant, said four people hold key spots in hospitals for holding down costs — controller, purchasing agent, plant manager and personnel director.

"Gone are the days," he said, "when a bookkeeper can be put in charge of a hospital's fiscal policies, or a mechanic can be entrusted to operate a multi-million dollar hospital plant."

Hospitals must upgrade their employes, he said.

"Hospital costs are going up," he added. "As a result hospitals must make sure they get more for their money in the future if they are to bring about sizable economies."

Here for the convention are 600 administrators, nurses and other personnel from 157 hospitals in the state.

Powell Arrest Order Delayed

NEW YORK (AP) - An arrest order for Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, sentenced to 30 days in jail for criminal contempt of court, must wait to be issued until after Tuesday's election.

Supreme Court Justice Mathew M. Levy, who found the Harlem Democrat guilty on two contempt counts Friday, ordered the temporary delay. Powell faces only token opposition from three cnadidates.

There was speculation from legal experts, however, that Powell could not be arrested outside the state and forced to begin serving the term. His whereabouts were uncertain.

The sentence grew out of Powell's five-year fight to avoid paying a $162,000 libel judgment he owes a Harlem widow. On a television program, Powell called her a "bag woman" or graft collector for corrupt police.

Levy also ordered Powell to pay a $250 fine.

throw the election into the Georgia Legislature.

Maryland: It's a close one between Republican Spiro T. Agnew and Democrat George P. Mahoney. A foe of open housing, Mahoney scored an upset victory in his primary election campaign, using the slogan, "Your home is your castle—protect it!"

Michigan: Gov. George Romney is heavily favored to win another two - year term over his Democratic opponent, Zolton A. Ferency. Romney supporters are hoping his margin will be great enough to help other GOP candidates in Michigan and further enhance the governor's prospects as a contender for the 1968 Republican nomination for president.

SENATE

Illinois: Republican Charles H. Percy is considered ahead of veteran Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas. Many observers predict a victory for Percy would place him in the ranks of contenders for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

Massachusetts: The race between former Democratic Gov. Endicott Peabody and Republican Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke is very close. If elected, Brooke would be the first Negro in the Senate since Reconstruction days.

Oregon: The Senate race between Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield and Democratic Rep. Robert B. Duncan is another close one. Hatfield says the war in Viet Nam is no longer an issue, Duncan says it is.

Ohio: Former Rep. Robert Taft Jr. holds a slim lead in Cincinnati's 1st District over freshman Democratic Rep. John J. Gilligan. Reapportionment has helped Taft.

Iowa: In one of the major surprises of the 1964 election, Iowa switched its House lineup from six Republicans and one Democrat to six Democrats and one Republican. Veteran Democrat Neal Smith should win easily, Republican H. R. Gross is favored for re-election. Freshman Democrats John Schmidhauser and John Culver appear to have winning edges, Republican William J. Scherle appears a likely winner over Democratic Rep. John R. Hansen. Other House contests are toss-ups.

Nixon, on the ABC radio-television program, Issues and Answers, and Johnson, at his news conference, were asked about their predictions on the voting.

Nixon predicted a GOP net gain of 40 in the House, a net of three in the Senate, six governorships and 700 state legislators.

Johnson shied away from specific figures, but quoted the prediction given him by Postmaster Gen. Lawrence O'Brien. "He anticipates there will be no substantial change in the Senate," the president said. "I think the Democrats will have a good, healthy, substantial majority in the House of Representatives."

While under doctors orders to be resting up for surgery, the President was busy doing his best to see that the Democrats wound up with such a margin. Sunday's news conference was his fourth in four days — counting his meeting with newsmen last Thursday when he announced he would undergo surgery before Thanksgiving.

Sunday, Johnson reported at his news conference that his Council of Economic Advisers had assured him inflationary pressures have eased. The report said "recent developments in the economy are a cause for encouragement but not for complacency. The council also said food prices — a touchy point with housewives — are declining.

This news, along with his announcement that he was nominating Undersecretary of Commerce Alan S. Boyd to head the new Cabinet-level Department of Transportation, began hitting the news wires just about the time Nixon was to appear on television.

In his second television appearance of the afternoon, Nixon spoke for the GOP on a half hour provided by the NBC network for the party to present its views. A film titled "What Goes on Here?" originally was scheduled. But it drew heavy criticism and was disowned by several GOP leaders. Nixon, in his role of answering Johnson's criticism, was its replacement.

Kenneth D. Paylor, 18, route four, was charged by police with careless and imprudent driving for taking off at a high rate of speed on East Malone, police said.

Leon Daniel, 36, of Matthews was arrested Saturday on Alabama St. and charged with discharging firearms in the city limits.

Nursing Shortage Forecast

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP) — Missouri hospitals will be crippled by a critical lack of registered nurses in the near future unless administrators and trustees act quickly, a national nursing authority said today.

Speaking at the opening session of the annual convention of the Missouri Hospital Association, Mrs. Margaret G. Ellsworth, Chicago, a nurse consultant, noted that nurses in some rural hospitals are being paid $275 a month, half what they can earn in other parts of the nation.

In the past 15 years, she said, Missouri has become known as a "feeder state," with more of the nurses training in Missouri seeking jobs in other areas than stay in the state.

"This drain - off will son reach critical proportions unless hospital officials take steps to meet competition," she said.

She said the American Nurses Association has set a goal of $6,500 in minimum annual salaries for nurses across the nation by the end of 1966.

John B. Warner Jr., a St. Louis hospital consultant, said four people hold key spots in hospitals for holding down costs — controller, purchasing agent, plant manager and personnel director.

"Gone are the days," he said, "when a bookkeeper can be put in charge of a hospital's fiscal policies, or a mechanic can be entrusted to operate a multi-million dollar hospital plant."

Hospitals must upgrade their employes, he said.

"Hospital costs are going up," he added. "As a result hospitals must make sure they get more for their money in the future if they are to bring about sizable economies."

Here for the convention are 600 administrators, nurses and other personnel from 157-hospitals in the state.

Powell Arrest Order Delayed

NEW YORK (AP) - An arrest order for Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, sentenced to 30 days in jail for criminal contempt of court, must wait to be issued until after Tuesday's election.

Supreme Court Justice Mathew M. Levy, who found the Harlem Democrat guilty on two contempt counts Friday, ordered the temporary delay. Powell faces only token opposition from three cnadidates.

There was speculation from legal experts, however, that Powell could not be arrested outside the state and forced to begin serving the term. His whereabouts were uncertain.

The sentence grew out of Powell's five-year fight to avoid paying a $162,000 libel judgment he owes a Harlem widow. On a television program, Powell called her a "bag woman" or graft collector for corrupt police.

Levy also ordered Powell to pay a $250 fine.
